Agnew Against Senate

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew promised Thailand's leaders Saturday he will campaign this fall against Senate moves to restrict U.S. actions in Southeast Asia.

He said he expects the American people to vote to uphold the Nixon administration's position.

American sources said Agnew also told Thai officials he believes Congress will refuse to pass the various restrictive moves, including Senate-passed amendments to curb direct or indirect U.S. involvement in Cambodia and bar extra pay for Thai, Korean and Filipino forces in Vietnam.

Thai leaders expressed strong disapproval of the Senate moves, but high U.S. sources indicated their reaction might be based more on psychological grounds than on the specific impact of the proposed legislation.

Thailand announced last week it plans to withdraw most or all of its 12,000 troops from South Vietnam, and Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman told a news conference Saturday that Thailand would only send troops to Cambodia—for which it would want U.S. financial support—"if the threat becomes acute."

U.S. sources said talks are continuing between Thailand and Cambodia with any actual Thai aid depending on what the two countries work out.

Agnew's two-hour and 20-minute session with Thai leaders, followed by a working luncheon and an afternoon curtesy call on King Bhumibol, wound up his week-long visit to five Asian nations.

He leaves Sunday on the flight home and plans to stop off in Hawaii before reporting to President Nixon at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif.

His trip was aimed at reassuring the Asian allies that the United States will meet its treaty commitments while reducing the over-all U.S. role in the Far East.

In his talks here, the vice president said he expects U.S. aid to Thailand, which last year was $39.2 million in economic assistance and $75 million in arms aid, will continue at the present levels.

World Champion

Fair Nears End

With the closing night drawing nearer, the 1970 Missouri State Fair was up 15,332 over the same period last year with attendance totaling 261,056 through Friday.

Friday's - attendance was 24,925 compared with 27,441 on the corresponding day last year.

In the Champion Horse Show, held for the first time in the fair's history Friday night, the World Champion Five-Gaited horse was chosen. "Spirit of '76", a six-year-old gelding owned by Miss Duthcess Benko of Poland, Ohio won the five-gaited champion over 12 other horses in the competition Friday night.

Arthur Simmons of Mexico, Mo. was raised and trained by Simmons, who sold him recently to Miss Benko. Simmons handled the gelding in the show, and said, "Right now he is among the top six or seven horses in the nation."

"Sea Beauty," also shown by Simmons and owned by Mrs. Joseph Pfeffer of St. Louis, took the three-gaited championship for the third year.

Horses from several different states competed in the five-gaited class for a $15,000 purse. The purse was the largest ever presented to any five-gaited class, as far as records can be checked, according to E. F. Stickler, horseshow superintendent.

The World Champion Three-Gaited class offered an overall purse of $3,000. Many horses valued at over $20,000 appeared in the two classes.

The winners of both classes received a large silver punch bowl set with 12 cups, in addition to a challenge trophy and garland.

At the end of the week's showings, over 2,000 horses were shown at the fair, the largest horse show in the history of the Missouri State Fair. All Championship classes were shown in the Coliseum Friday evening.

The grand champion steer of the junior livestock division of the Missouri State Fair brought a record price of $1.15 a pound

Black Soldier Buried In All-White Cemetery

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — A black soldier, who died in Vietnam and lay in a coffin while lawyers battled over his funeral, was buried Saturday in an all-white cemetery as some white grave owners threatened to remove their relatives' bodies.

Hillcrest Memorial Gardens had refused to bury the body of 20-year-old Army Spec. 4 Pondexteur E. Williams since Aug. 20, but a U.S. District judge ordered the burial.

As cemetery manager James A. Livesay supervised final preparations for the burial one elderly man angrily confronted him in his office.

"I don't want my brother and his wife buried here with niggers," shouted E.J. Moulder, 79. He demanded to have grave markers removed from the graves and asked Livesay, "Why didn't you take it to a higher court?"

Later, Moulder said he owns the plot next to that of his brother and sister-in-law for himself and is considering having all the bodies moved out.

"It's degrading to the cemetery," Moulder said. "Why don't they bury him over the hill where he belongs? It's a third-rate cemetery now."

Livesay told a newsman, "This goes on all the time."

"Some people want to remove their loved ones," he said, but added, "I don't anticipate any,

First Integration For School Systems

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — More than 100 school systems throughout the Deep South integrated for the first time last week amid last-minute court appeals, some protests and demonstrations but only one instance of violence, the bombing of a school.

But the real test comes this week, when the majority of Southern schools are scheduled to begin classes.

Despite some instances of forced delays in openings, problems involving required busing, confusion, boycotts and acknowledged potential for violence, the over-all outlook appears to be one of caustious optimism.

Exact state-by-state figures on last week's openings are not available, but an Associated Press survey shows that more than 100 systems began operating in nine states-Virginia Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Violence occurred only in North Carolina, where formerly all-black G.W. Bulluck School was bombed Thursday night, on the eve of its scheduled opening as a paired school. Officials said two blasts of dynamite blew a three-foot-square hole in the building and shattered 20 windows. No one was injured.

Elsewhere there were boycotts by both blacks and whites.

At Grays, S.C., and Easley, S.C., black elementary school pupils stayed away from classes, protesting the closing of Negro schools. By week's end, only about 60 continued to boycott at Easley. About 200 continued at Grays.

At Sparta, Ga., seat of predominantely black Hancock County, Negroes-some of them wearing holstered weapons-staged a series of daily marches to protest a plan which would retain an all-black school. Opening of classes was delayed until Sept. 10.

In Lamar, S.C., and Augusta, Ga., boycotts were conducted by whites.

Lamar, where white adults attacked Negro pupils and law enforcement officers last March, was quiet. But attendance figures revealed that almost 500 white pupils were absent from class. Only 171 were attending.

Sixty-two of South Carolira's 93 systems, 21 of Louisiana's 64 and 10 of Florida's 67 all opened without incident.

In Louisiana, where most systems are under federal court orders, one local school board suffered another reversal in the courts. Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr., of U.S. District Court ordered the Concordia Parish board to reinstate about 20 Negro teachers dismissed or demoted during the summer.

Dawkins said the board's action did not give the teachers adequate notice and appeared to be racially motivated.

In Florida, the 10 systems already operating are small and have no history of racial diffi-

Army Says Fifteen-Year-Old War Veteran Not a Soldier

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — Walter Martin, a husky 15-year-old who served two hitches and says he was twice wounded in Vietnam although the Army claims he never legally enlisted, said today he may sue the Army for refusing to recognize his service.

"The Army will take things from you if you owe them," said Martin at the end of a journey home from Ft. Carson, Colo "But it'll break your leg before it pays you what you got coming."

A coconut cake and a mother with tear-reddened eyes and a spruced up hairdo waited for Martin in this southwest Florida community when he arrived, hitching the last 100 miles with a reporter.

Martin, dressed in a white tee shirt and dungarees, had arrived at Tampa International Airport at 12:35 a.m. after the long journey from Ft. Carson where his masquerade ended.

The boy, whose travels began at age 12, had been charged briefly with fraud for fooling the Army but charges were dismissed in Colorado Springs Friday afternoon.

"He's tired, has a headache and does not want to be disturbed," said a relative when Martin got to his mother's apartment here.

Asst. U.S. Atty. James Richards said in Denver Thursday that the 6-foot-3, 198 - pound youth had joined the Army at the age of 12 as James J. Wilson, went to Vietnam, was wounded, unmasked and sent home.

Martin somehow rejoined the military forces in Vietnam under the name S. Sgt. Albert Lewis Jr. and was wounded again, Richards said.

But Lt. Col. George D. Barante, public affairs information officer for Fort Carson and the 5th Infantry Division, said the Army does not officially recognize that Martin served.

"He was not officially in, did not officially enlist or enter through any normal method," Barrante said. "He was, in fact, not a soldier. He isn't a soldier. That's why he was turned over to the U.S. attorney's office."

The youth was picked up while posing as Lewis and serving in a military police company at Ft. Carson. The U.S. attorney's office said it entered the case because Martin filed a claim of $166 against the government while posing as Lewis.

The charge of fraud on the government was dismissed Friday and he was freed from the El Paso County jail, where he had been held under $1,500 bond.

"I'm just going to hug him and kiss him and never let him out of my sight again," his mother. Alma Lee Jones said when told her son was on his way home.

"I'm going to bake him a cake—a coconut one because that's his favorite thing—and then we're going to sit down and have a long talk," the tearful mother of five said.

Cambodian Forces Halt Enemy Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Aided by 50 teen-age commandos, Cambodian government troops drove off an enemy attack Saturday five miles south of this capital city.

The fighting raged for eight hours. At one point, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attackers, supported by local guerrillas, got within 40 yards of government lines.

The battle marked the latest round in a series of probing assaults against Phnom Penh's outer defense lines.

The commander of the government troops estimated the enemy force at 300 men, including a large number Cambodian guerrillas. It marked the first time any sizable number of local guerrilla fighters were in action near the capital.

The defending government force also numbered about 300 of which 250 were government regulars and the other 50 were teen-age recruits.

The enemy losses were unknown. The attack force dragged their casualties off the battlefield. Losses to government troops were said to be two killed and two wounded.

The attack was aimed at the government positions at Moat Krasar Krao, a locality well within artillery and rocket range of Phnom Penh.

Before they left the area, the attackers scattered leaflets calling on the government soldiers to rally to their side and join the fight against "American imperialists."

The renewed fighting near Phnom Penh dominated the war picture in Indochina although an upsurge in activity was reported in South Vietnam, especially in the sensitive northern sector.

In one of the largest attacks, North Vietnamese gunners shelled South Vietnamese positions two miles south of Fire Base O'Reilly, an artillery strongpoint in the northern mountains.

The enemy force sent an estimated 200 mortar rounds into the entrenched South Vietnamese infantrymen, but a headquarters communique said government casualties were "extremely light."

McGovern-Hatfield Amendment Cases Presented Before Vote

-Pro-

By Sen. George McGovern
For The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The McGovern-Hatfield Amendment, the so-called Amendment to End the War, would accomplish two main purposes:

—It would restore a greater measure of constitutional government in the United States by providing that the President and the Congress share in the decisions of war and peace, particularly in Indochina.

—It would establish a fixed timetable for the withdrawal of all American forces from Indochina, thus ending U.S. involvement in the war and probably hastening the end of all hostilities.

The Constitution gives the Congress the power to raise armies, to vote on continued financing for them at least once every two years and, most important, to declare war. It gives the President the heavy responsibility of acting as commander in chief of those armed forces.

In simple terms, the Constitu-

By SEN. ROBERT P. GRIFFIN
For The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Americans want to see an end to our involvement in the Vietnam war. Most Americans would like to see our troops come home as quickly as possible.

It is appealing but deceiving to suggest that the war could be ended simply by passing an amendment. Yet, such a proposition will come up for a vote in the Senate next week.

As originally proposed, the McGovern-Hatfield amendment would require withdrawal of all American forces from Vietnam by June 30, 1971. In order to attract a few more votes, the amendment was rewritten in the past few days to extend the withdrawal date to Dec. 31, 1971.

In still another effort to attract more support, the amendment was revised again just before it became the pending business before the Senate.

The latest version would give the President an additional 60 days on the deadline for withdrawal if he found that American troops were exposed to "unanticipated clear and present danger."

The new version also would freeze into law the President's announced intention of reducing the troop level in South Vietnam to no more than 280,000 by April 30, 1971.

The sponsors, obviously, are trying to make palatable an unpalatable product.

In the Senate cloakrooms the revised amendment is appropriately referred to as "the amendment to extend the war." That's exactly what it would do—in either its original or its revised form.

As the showdown on this issue approaches, it is well to recall President Nixon's statement at a press conference as far back as September 26, 1969.

"It is my conclusion," he said, "that if the administration were to impose an arbitrary cutoff time—say, the end of 1970 of the middle of 1971—for the complete withdrawal of American forces in Vietnam, that inevitably leads to perpetuating and continuing the war until that time and destroys any chance to reach the objective that I am trying to achieve of ending the war before the end of 1970 or before the middle of 1971."

The Hatfield - McGovern amendment seeks to impose by legislative fiat what the administration refused to do. It should be defeated for the same reason: It could prolong rather than shorten the war. . .

It should be obvious that the administration is moving to

Fighting Erupts Near the Palace

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Fighting erupted within a few yards of King Hussein's palace Saturday in the second straight day of armed clashes between government forces and Palestinian commandos.

One Al Fatah guerrilla was killed and four others wounded in the clash outside the palace.

In other fighting which swirled around City Hall in downtown Amman, three civilians were wounded and three casualties were reported among Jordanian troops. The battle at City Hall was between guerrillas of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine and Jordanian special forces. No guerrilla casualties were reported.

Hussein earlier called a special meeting of his Cabinet to discuss bloody fighting overnight in the capital.

The Palestinians said two commandos died and several were wounded in the overnight battle for the central telephone and post office building on one of the capital's main streets.

The government remained silent about the incident, the latest in a series of bitter encounters and bloodletting between Arab guerrillas and Jordanian forces loyal to King Hussein.

Guerrillas were still patrolling Saturday after the night-long fight, but their patrol cars avoided the post office area. Government troops remained out of sight.

There was sporadic machine-gun fire for two hours during the battle, and three rockets were fired at government troops by the commandos.

The Jordanian government has accepted the U.S. proposal for a 90-day cease-fire and negotiations with Israel for a Middle East peace settlement. Egypt also agreed to the plan. The guerrillas have denounced it and pledged to continue the fight and sabotage it.

The U.S. peace plan resulted in the opening last Tuesday at the United Nations in New York of talks aimed at ending the 22-year enmity between Israel and her neighbors. Israel, Jordan and Egypt are taking part in the discussions under U.N. special envoy Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden.

The current negotiations are based on a 1967 U.N. Security Council resolution which called for an Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory captured in the six-day June war and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist within secure borders.

In other Middle East developments:

An Israeli Cabinet minister and adviser to Prime Minister Golda Meir warned that Egyptian violations of the three-week-old cease-fire could cause the peace talks to collapse.

Israel Galili, minister without portfolio, predicted that if fighting breaks out again it will be "far more serious."

Militants, Legionaires Assembling

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The American Legion national convention worked on draft resolutions Saturday while 200 young people met in a city park to plan four days of protest against the legion's hawkish position on the Vietnam war.

There were no reports of clashes between the legion, which is expecting 14,000 delegates, and the protesters, who hope to gain support from among the 40,000 to 65,000 young people at two nearby rock festivals.

Some 4,700 National Guardsmen have been placed on active duty and another 1,300 on alert. Officials said tension appeared to have eased from last week.

The national commander of the legion Friday rejected a request by the People's Army Jamboree, a group organizing the antiwar demonstrations, to discuss the Vietnam war and other issues at the convention, which began Friday.

J. Milton Patrick, 54, Skiatook, Okla., said "I think it would be a waste of time. I don't think I could sell them my views and I don't think they could sell me their views."

Patrick added that he believes responsible, peaceful dissent should be permitted. Both the legion and the jamboree have said they want no violence.

Legion committees worked on 400 to 500 resolutions submitted by state conventions. They were to draft resolutions to be submitted to the national group Wednesday and Thursday.

The largest rock festival, Vortex I at McIver State Park southeast of Portland, has state backing and is designed to keep young people out of Portland.

Sheriff's deputies estimated Saturday morning's crowd at 27,000 but festival sponsors said it was closer to 40,000. Traffic into the festival started piling up early Friday on the narrov country road to the site and at one time cars were backed up 16 miles–almost to the Portland city limits.

Early Saturday, with fog limiting visibility, three young California men were killed and six other persons injured in a three-car collision on the road.

At the Sky River Festival and Lighter Than Air Fair near Washougal, Wash., north of Portland, crowd estimates ranged from 10,000 to 25,000. An annual event, it was planned this year to coincide with the legion convention.

In a Portland park seven miles north of the city center, the jamboree conducted orientation sessions for about 200 persons.

The jamboree's first major activity is a march through downtown Sunday for "victory to the Vietnamese people." The jamboree plans another march "to end racism" Tuesday.

On Monday, the legion will hold a four-hour parade.

Two Killed, One Injured In Accident

SYRACUSE — Two people were killed and one injured in a two-car head-on collision Saturday afternoon on Morgan County Route D, two miles south of here.

Ambulances from the Conn Funeral Home took the victims to Bothwell Hospital where Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kanenbley, Syracuse, were pronounced dead on arrival.

Injured was Charles Leo Randall, 1010 East Broadway, who was rushed to the hospital for treatment of fractures to his right shoulder, an ankle and a rib. He also suffered a concussion and lacerations to his scalp. Following surgery Saturday evening, Randall was listed in satsifactory condition by hospital authorities.

According to Highway Patrolman Bill Pearce, the Kanenbley's southbound 1966 Chevrolet and Randall's northbound 1962 Chevrolet hit head-on in the center of the roadway on a hillcrest.

The accident happened about one-fourth mile from the Kanenbleys' home.

'Illness' By a Tate Defendant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Testimony about the stabbing of a woman market owner stopped suddenly at the Sharon Tate murder trial as defendant Susan Atkins, ashen faced, laid her head on the counsel table and complained of illness.

The judge recessed court two hours early Friday and arranged a medical examination for Miss Atkins. The results were not announced.

Earlier, the 21-year-old defendant was briefly examined by the jail doctor when she complained of pains in her side. As court opened, Miss Atkins, usually bouncy and smiling, shuffled listlessly into the courtroom wearing a blue denim jail uniform and rubber sandals. She leaned her head on the shoulder of codefendant Patricia Krenwinkel, 22.

Testimony was delayed 1½ hours while the doctor looked at her, then declared her fit to resume the session. But after lunch Miss Atkins asked to talk to the judge and told him she was too sick to continue.

Her attorney, Daye Shinn, said Miss Atkins had a pain in her side where she once had a cyst. He said she was also dizzy and had a headache.

Miss Atkins, Miss Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, 20, are on trial with Charles M. Manson, 35, leader of a nomadic hippie-style "family." All are charged with murder-conspiracy in the August 1969 slayings of Miss Tate and six others.

At Friday's session, the defendants heard an autopsy surgeon detail the 41 stab wounds of Rosemary LaBianca, 38, found slain with her husband, Leno, the night after the killings of Miss Tate and four visitors at the home of the actress.

Dr. David Katsuyama said the killer of Mrs. LaBianca kept plunging a sharp double-edge knife into her after she was mortally wounded and perhaps after she died.

Change Title For Davis Play

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — An Ossie Davis play entitled "Purlie Victorius," scheduled Sept. 17-19 at Southeast Missouri State College, is now being called "Purlie Gets Locked Out."

The new designation was given this week by the play's sponsor, the South Cape Community Progress Center after the locks on the doors of the Rose Theatre were changed so no outsiders could get in.

The integrated cast, which includes college students, had been rehearsing at the theatre for three weeks. But on Monday Dr. Larry Grisvard said he was told by the college president, Dr. Mark Scully, there was a rule no outsiders could use the theatre.

Dr. Grisvard, in his 11th year at the college, said he had not been aware of such a rule and when he was called over to the dean of students office on Monday the locks were changed on the theatre building. "I couldn't get back into my own building," he said.

Dr. Grisvard said the subject matter of the comedy was not offensive and he believed college officials "over-reacted" to a large fire at the M. E. Leming Lumber Co. here last week in which arson was suspected.

"There was some information put out that some Negroes from the community center might have been involved," Grisvard said.

The community center receives funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity and proceeds of the play were to go to help housing efforts for the poor in Cape Girardeau.

Ossie Davis, the black actor who wrote the Broadway play, waived royalties for its production in Cape Girardeau and sent $100 to the sponsors. He has been invited to attend the performances.

Russ Limbaugh Jr., an attorney, said he has been trying to line up another location for the play, possibly at the city's high school.

Dr. Scully was on vacation and could not be reached for comment.

His Long Sideburns Lose Cop His Job

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The hearing was short, the sideburns were not.

The Santa Monica Personnel Board upheld Friday an order by Police Chief Earl Reinbold that sideburns of his officers terminate at "about the mid-ear level."

Eric Wexler, 25, a member of the force for 16 months, did not comply and was fired July 25.

He now has two alternatives: A razor or the courts.

Albert Speer's Story—I

Claims Hitler No Monster

(First of Three Parts)

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
HEIDELBERG, Germany —

(Nea) — Albert Speer had 20 years in the solitary prison of Spandau to reflect on the phenomenon that was Adolph Hitler. And he has had the tranquil years since his release in 1966, spent in the family villa high above the plain of the Rhine, to provide the rationale for the monstrous period of history, Hitlerian Germany, when millions of people were murdered.

He could do this because by the end of World War II, in his position as minister for armament and war production, he was in effect the second most important man in Germany. He had also been a colleague of Hitler as the chief architect of the Third Reich. At the Nuernberg War Trials of the 22 leading Nazi conspirators, he had been the only one to plead guilty. At the age of 40, his creative life was virtually over.

Albert Speers faces me — we are in matching red leather chairs — before a large picture window overlooking manicured gardens. He is 65 and his hair is white, but he remains vigorous and erect, a still handsome remnant of the man who was at Hitler's side strutting through the Arc de Triomphe in Paris. He is friendly and speaks in English, which he mastered in prison.

"It is a mistake," he says, "to picture Hitler as a monster, as a man who only shouted and misbehaved and was very rough. It's a wrong picture because somewhere another leader might come along and he's so gentle, so nice and charming and kisses the children. You would say this man can never be like Hitler, who committed such crimes. So for future history, I want to show that Hitler on the outside appeared quite normal."

And then he refines the image:

"If you wouldn't have known he was a politician and seen him at Obersalzberg (Hitler's Alpine retreat) with the Nazis' inner circle, you would say he is obviously a man who isn't too polished in social graces, but nevertheless pays attention to the women around him, is kind to them and courteous, even a little too insistent on social formalities."

Symptomatic of Hitler's bourgeois posture was his relationship with Eva Braun. Speer never heard her call him "Adolf." In German, the informal "you" is "du" and the formal is "Sie."

"He spoke always with a 'Sie' to Fraulein Braun," says Speer. "If you have a girl friend, you don't hide her. It was ridiculous. She would leave the group at night. Then, after 10 minutes, he would say goodby, too."

And yet there was also the Hitler who ranted and strutted in public. Could this indicate schizophrenia?

"No." Speer measures his hands together and talks deliberately. "He was a pragmatist and pragmatism taught him to be polite and charming to achieve his aims."

This seems odd in a system where the dictator is omnipotent.

"You underestimate the importance of the feeling of the whole population in a totalitarian system. It was important to Hitler what the people thought. He couldn't have started the war without the sympathy of the people. They'd ask me, 'What's he like in his private life?' And when I told them, they'd say, 'Hmmm. Such a nice man.' And the image spread and helped him."

Speer himself admits he was seduced by the attentions of a head of state who made an unknown 28-year-old the master architect of Germany. Driven by ambition, spurred by flattery, entranced by Hitler personally, he was able to ignore the regime's atrocities as his career progressed. This gnaws on his conscience. Even near the end, already aware of the enormity of Hitler's crimes, he flew to the bunker in Berlin for a final farewell.

"I was his architect for many years," he says, "and he had been like a colleague. Now he looked like a very old man and was shaking. After he ate he was full of spots, and everything was neglected. I pitied him. But in retrospect, Hitler didn't deserve to be pitied because he is one of the men who changed the course of history in a very bad way."

Speer is candid about his own guilt. He saw the personality of Hitler from two angles — that of architect and of minister of armaments. He says the picture would be more rounded if seen also from the angle of someone such as Heinrich Himmler, the SS leader who killed himself.

"Generally," Speer sums, "I have the impression Hitler was a man dead inside, who had no rich inner life. Because he was dead, all those evil things which came to him had no resistance. I explain this with water colors and drawings he made during his youth, which are without animation or personality — one small stroke after the other, done very patiently, in a bureaucratic, painstaking way. For someone with feeling, at some point the lines would veer. But with Hitler you can follow the whole thing to the last corner.

"This man who made those watercolors I think must have been really empty."

Big Splash By Nixon For Ordaz

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Six hundred guests, including movie stars, politicans, and leaders of the Mexican-American community are being invited to President Nixon's state dinner in San Diego Thursday for Mexican President Diaz Ordaz.

It will be held in the huge Crown Room of the Victorian gingerbread-style seaside Hotel Del Coronado.

"There's no attempt being made to make it the White House," said Constance Stuart, press secretary to Mrs. Nixon. She said, the hotel management and chef will be in charge of most of the arrangements.

The Crown Room, with arched ceilings of natural-finish sugar-pine and elaborate chandeliers, can seat 1,000 people easily.

The guests will be seated at round tables, and there will be a rectangular head table for the two presidents and top guests.

The menu, as President Nixon requested, will be a combination of Mexican and American foods. But the details have not yet been announced. Also undecided, Mrs. Stuart said, is the entertainment for the occasion.

The entire Nixon family, including daughters Tricia and Julie and son-in-law David Eisenhower, will attend. Diaz Ordaz, whose wife has been ill, will be accompanied by his daughter, Guadalupe, and her husband, Salim Nasta.

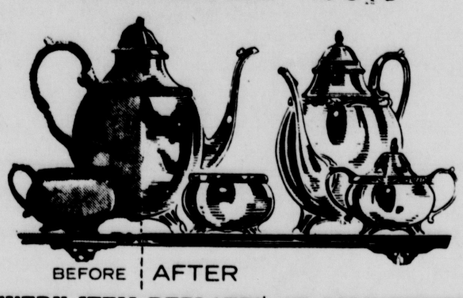

Sidewalk Bistros Serve Pollution

NEW YORK (AP) — Deputy Air Resources Commissioner Fred C. Hart warns that people with heart and respiratory ailments should avoid spending long periods at sidewalk cafes.

Pollution is more than double there than in indoor restaurants, he said, adding, "The farther away from the traffic ... you are, the less the problem will be."

℞ MOST BAD BREATH CAN BE CONTROLLED

Once considered an almost unmentionable subject, bad breath is now more openly discussed. There are many possible causes of bad breath; and therefore many different ways to control it. If it is a problem stemming from a condition in the mouth your dentist can suggest an effective method to lessen or even eliminate it. Certain mouthwashes and other products can be useful in everyday care.

Other causes of bad breath can come from the stomach or lungs and in some cases has been related to emotional stress. Once the cause has been determined a way can usually be found to stop it. Do not be afraid to discuss bad breath with your physician or dentist.

tion says that the Congress shall determine whether American troops shall be deployed and the President shall determine how they are deployed. These provisions ensure a shared responsibility over matters of war and peace. The Congress cannot force a President to employ the armed forces; the President cannot commit them to a war without the consent of Congress.

But, in practice, we have strayed from these constitutional rules over the past few decades. Congress has failed to exercise its powers, and succeeding presidents have assumed increasing responsibility for all decisions involving our armed forces.

The war in Indochina is the longest in which the United States has been engaged in our national history and there is no prospect of it ending soon. The time has come for the Congress to reassume its role and to share the political responsibility with the President for bringing it to an end.

bring our involvement in Southeast Asia to an end as soon as possible. While no timetable has been announced, and for obvious reasons none should be, Secretary of State William Rogers and other official spokesmen have made it clear that the administration's plan is "irreversible" and "contemplates the complete withdrawal of the troops in Vietnam."

There is no need at all for a law or anything else seeking to accomplish what already is being done.

If we should tie the President's efforts to a fixed and public-proclaimed schedule, it would only serve to make an orderly withdrawal more difficult —and, quite possibly, more dangerous for our men in Vietnam.

Both those counties were forced into feverish last-minute efforts to implement court orders which require substantial busing when Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the U.S. Supreme Court denied them a stay.

Burger's action prompted a delay in opening the Charlotte, N.C., and Winston-Salem, N.C., systems. In Charlotte, where a court plan calls for busing 13,000 to 17,000 pupils, schools will not open until Sept. 9. In Winston-Salem, where an estimated 2,700 pupils will be bused under a court plan, the opening date is Sept. 1.

Observers in Georgia, where most systems open Monday, are watching to see how many parents take the advice of Gov. Lester Maddox.

Clint Cochran of Holden, Kerry Kartholomew of Keytesville, Roger Yokley of Stockton and Wesley Nelson of Clever got awards for keeping clean and safe exhibits.

The Braymer FFA chapter ranked first in beef and swing displays. While Billings got the dairy award, Troy the farm mechanics, Hamilton the sheep exhibit and Princeton the field crop display.

Horse racing closed Friday, with "Fair Chance" winning his 15th consecutive race, taking the Missouri Derby and the $600 purse. "Fair Chance" is owned by Charles Hoffman of Miami, Okla.

In car racing, Eddie Leavitt, Kearney, Mo., won the 50-lap modified car race Friday night and claimed the $1,000 prize.

Fred Horn of Marion, Iowa, was named winner of the 100-mile stock car race at the fair Saturday following a recheck of score sheets by race officials.

Ron Hutcherson of Keokuk, Iowa, first was announced as the winner, but Horn and Mike Derr of Keokuk asked for another tally of the sheets. This time first place was awarded to Horn, second to Hutcherson and third to Derr.

Derr, son of Ernie Derr, 10-time IMCA champion, was placed on the same lap as the leaders at the finish, instead of a lap behind as the first count showed.

The IMCA-sanctioned big-car futurity, 100 miles of racing, will wind up the fair's racing events Sunday afternoon.

Thirty bands from different cities preformed at the fair during the week with the Knox County High School band from Edina receiving a plaque Saturday as the band traveling the great distance to perform at the fair.

As the fair draws to a close for another year saddle club demonstrations in the Coliseum from 1 to 7 p.m., the Grand Ole Opry Spectacular at 8 p.m., various church services and the dance at Kicksville will wrap up the last day of the Missouri State Fair.

Attack

Across the country, allied military spokesmen reported 23 enemy rocket and mortar attacks in the 24 hours up to 8 a.m. Saturday. The attacks were the highest number in two weeks. Spokesmen reported 31 Americans wounded and at least two South Vietnamese killed and 15 wounded.

Question

My invalid mother is not old enough to qualify for Social Security benefits from my deceased father but she does receive a small veteran's pension. To your knowledge, are there any other sources of income available to her?

Answer

Although your mother may not be old enough to qualify for an annuity based upon her age she may qualify as disabled under either her own earnings or your Father's earnings. If she has ever been employed under Social Security request your local Social Security office to check her wage history. Ask them also to review your mother's situation for entitlement to disability benefits based upon your Father's employment history.

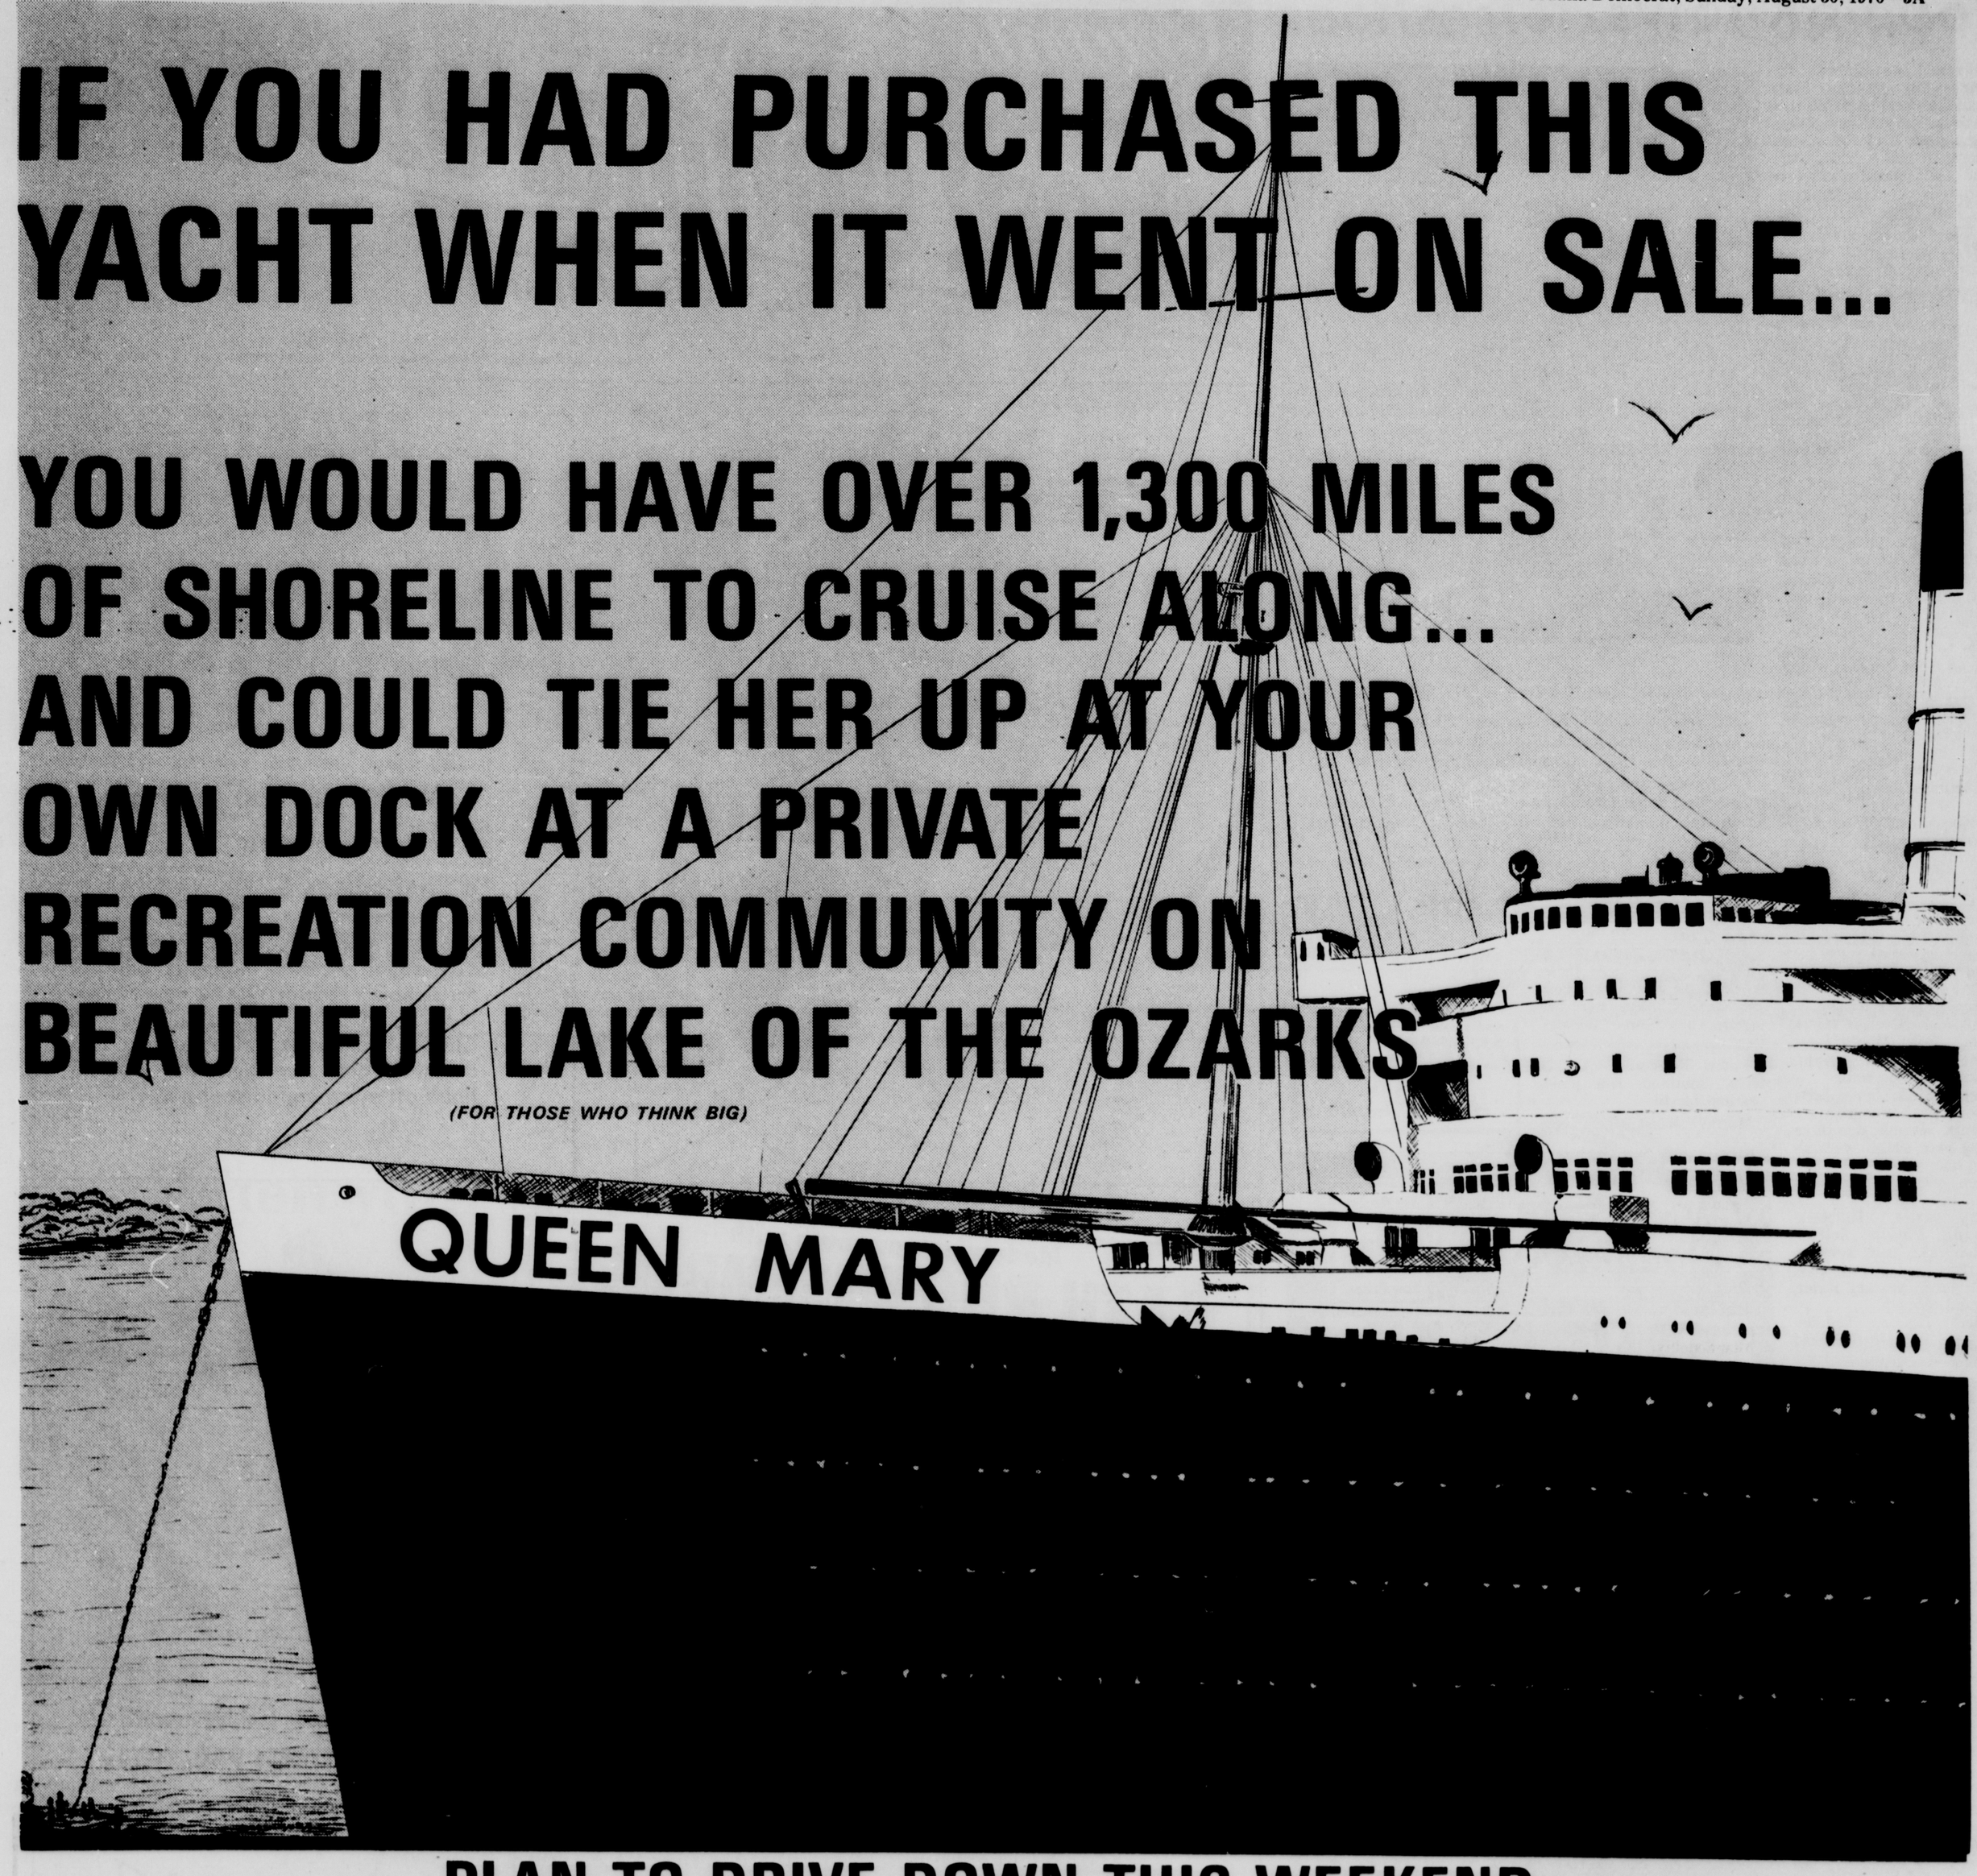

Recently Congress passed a bill implementing the amount received monthly by a veteran's widows if the widow is in need of regular aid and attendance. Since your mother is already receiving a pension she can receive an additional $50.00 each month if she is disabled to the extent that she needs home care of if she is in a nursing home.

Couple Knows Horseshoes

It would be difficult to convince Mr. and Mrs. Earl Winston of LaMonte that the old adage about horseshoes being good luck is mere folklore.

The Winstons, who are superintendents of the Missouri State Fair Horseshoe pitching tourney, met at a pitching contest.

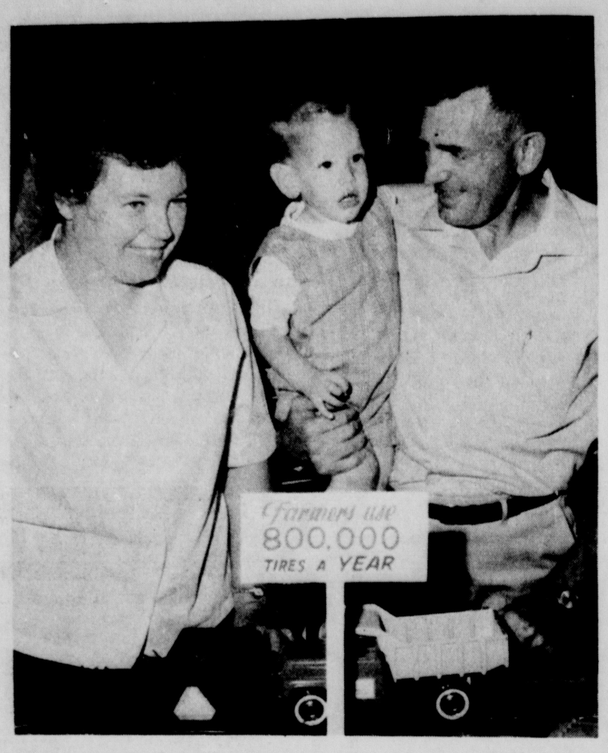

"I met Earl at a contest in Salt Lake City in 1959," Oregon-born Vicki Winston said. "The following June we got married."

Mrs. Winston has the distinction of being the first woman to be elected to the Horseshoe Hall of Fame. She was installed to the honorary position earlier this month at the World Champion Tournament at Southgate, Calif.

"I was defending champion at the tournament," she said, "and placed third this year. I have won the championship eight times, however, so it was someone else's turn I guess."

The horseshoe pitching Hall of Fame is relatively new to the world champion competition, but the tournaments have been going on since the turn of the century. Mrs. Winston's wins are greater than any other world champ — male or female — in the history of the title.

The horseshoe pitching contest opened Friday morning and continues through Sunday. The Missouri state championship is to be judged in the finals Sunday.

Head Fair Contest

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Winston and 21-month-old son Keith are pictured at a display of farm machinery at one of the 1970 Missouri State Fair exhibits. The Winstons are superintendents of the horseshow pitching contest at the Fair. Mrs. Winston is the only woman named to the horseshoe pitching Hall of Fame.

Pick Miss Black America

Wears the Crown

Miss Black America of 1970, Stephanie Clark, 19, of Washington, D.C., displays her trophy after being chosen during the pageant at Madison Square Garden in New York Friday night. (UPI)

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephanie Clark, a beautiful coed majoring in sociology and psychology, has won the 1970 Miss Black America title and says she hopes to do justice to "the beauty, the intelligence and the manner of black women."

Miss Clark, 19, representing the District of Columbia in the competition Friday night at Madison Square Garden, defeated entrants from 30 states. More than 4,000 spectators cheered.

One of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clark of Washington, D.C., she is a sophomore at Ithaca (N.Y.) College.

Miss Clark is 5-feet-5 and weights 130 pounds. Her first prize includes $3,000 in cash. $5,000 for personal appearances, and a Caribbean trip.

Asked how she won the title, Miss Clark batted her heavy eye-lashes and said, "I acted myself. That's the role of Miss Black America."

Miss Clark showed little sympathy for the Women's Liberation movement.

"It doesn't concern a black woman," she said, as photographers swarmed around to catch her in the victory crown. "She already knows her obligation—to stick with her man, to uplift his pride."

Miss Clark said she was looking forward to visiting Vietnam to entertain American troops, as her predecessor had done. Her brother, Elmer Jr., 20, returned from Vietnam in February.

Hopeful of becoming a professional singer, Miss Clark sang "Alfie" in the talent portion of the pageant. The contestants also posed in bathing suits and answered questions.

"My contribution to my black people will be through music," Miss Clark said.

Find Dynamite, Two Charged In Conspiracy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two 20 - year - old men have been charged with conspiring to commit arson, with unlawful use of explosives and with possession of stolen property.

They were arrested Thursday after police found 150 pounds of dynamite in the garage of a home in suburban Overland Park, Kan.

Police went to the home after getting a tip that the dynamite would be used to blow up city hall.

Michael Hannon Boyle, who lived in the house, will have a preliminary hearing Sept. 1.

Charles Richard Young of Mission, Kan., will have a hearing Sept. 2.

A Johnson County magistrate signed a warrant for a third man charging him with conspiracy to commit arson.

Drug Abuse Reaches Every Part of Country

SCOTT CITY, Kan. (AP) — "Please, if you have even the faintest suspicion that your son or daughter is toying with the idea of drugs, do anything you can to stop them.

"They will deny it, they will lie to you, they will do all the things you think someone else's child might do—but never your own.

"They will break your heart and their own."

That plea comes from the parents of an attractive daughter swallowed up in America's mushrooming drug scene.

The setting is not New York or San Francisco, but Scott City a rural community of 4,000 persons in western Kansas.

Central figure in this modern American tragedy is 18-year-old Cathy Lewis, one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Lewis, owners and operators of a carpet and tile company.

The beginning of Cathy's story dates back one to two years, the exact time is unknown. But somewhere during that period Cathy—an average student in Scott Community High School where she was a candidate for homecoming queen her freshman year—was introduced to marijuana by a "friend."

Then came pep pills, beanies, speed, LSD and MDA.

Once alert and responsive, Cathy's grades began falling off. She should have graduated last spring, a bright future before her. Instead a summer of drug usage lay ahead.

On Aug. 10 a showdown came between Cathy and her parents. Cathy ended the confrontation with: "I've got my own life to live." She packed her bags and moved to Garden City, Kan. On Aug. 14, she was persuaded by police and family friends to return to Scott City.

Later she voluntarily signed commitment papers to Larned State Hospital, where she could receive treatment to open the road back to normalcy.

The night before she was to leave for the hospital, Cathy went to bed, seemingly without protest. Sometime during the night, as the rest of the family slept she crawled out her bedroom window and disappeared. That was Aug. 17.

In an interview with the Garden City Telegram, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis allowed the public an inside look into the highly personal family tragedy in the hope that somewhere parents might wake up in time to prevent a repeat within their own family.

"Our daughter has disappeared—we do not know where she is but we must get her back some way to help her. We believed we were helping her by trusting and believeing her, but we weren't," Mrs. Lewis said.

"Please check on your children, don't believe them unless you know they are not involved in any way. Involvement comes in many ways—usually through a friend or chance acquaintance.

"There are pushers in Scott City right now! Too late we have become aware of these things, but perhaps not too late for you. Suicide, insanity or just a complete loss of contact with the world are the three routes drug addiction usually take."

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis also urged complete cooperation with law enforcement officers, emphasizing they in no way blame police for being unable to just move in and clean out the drug community.

"Our laws are so written that conviction in a narcotics case is nearly impossible," Lewis said. "Our law enforcement officers are operating with tied hands. It is up to the parents to tear down the walls of the Legislature—until we get some common sense laws passed—so the pushers of these drugs can be prosecuted and convicted."

And he added: ". . . If we alert just one family. . ."

EDITORIALS

Comes a Sour Rebuke!

Not everyone in the Sedalia area is opposed to Bothwell Hospital management's new policy of not releasing for publication names of patients admitted for routine medical attention.

Listen to this personal communication received in rebuttal to previous comments in this column:

"Come on, George, you have a 'big city' newspaper now — remember? And you don't bother with the little stuff! Why make such a stink about this withholding names of Bothwell patients? Why should you care who has a gall bladder or a D & C? You've been a patient in the hospital; do you want your room running over with curious visitors??? Why don't you keep your nose out of this and let Bothwell Hospital work things out to the good of all concerned. Stick to the advertising — that is where the money is! Signed, (One of your fans who thinks you are on the wrong track this time.)"

How's that for a sour rebuke?

If there are any more, send them along. We are not disinclined to publish the opinions of both sides on a subject which some persons refer to as a tempest in a teapot. Some new ideas concerning solutions to the dilemma of the management over recurring congestion by visitors in the hospital may be forthcoming.

Here is one method to minimize the number of visitors rather than by withholding their names from the public: Keep at least half of the patients out of the hospital.

This can be done by just staying well through proper preventive care. That's the verdict of a new study conducted by the Massachusetts General Hospital in cooperation with the department of preventive medicine at Harvard University Medical School.

An analysis of the study by the Health Insurance Institute found that almost three out of five hospitalizations could have been avoided by preventive measures. Fifty per cent of the sample patients had illnesses classified as "modifiable;" that is, hospitalization could have been avoided if the condition had initially been properly identified and given proper care.

In the probably preventable illnesses, heavy cigarette smoking and being overweight were considered the most important factors among patient failures to prevent illness.

Delay in seeking care was also listed as a main reason in a person's ultimate confinement to a hospital. Earlier treatment, it was believed, could have kept them out of hospitals.

An Institute review of a number of other studies revealed the estimate that at least one patient out of 10 in U.S. hospitals "overstayed," taking up bed space unnecessarily. Some bed patients could have been cared for in nursing, convalescent or chronic disease homes.

Others belong right in their own home, while a small percentage are in hospitals though they are medically sound.

The moral here is, fewer patients, fewer visitors and fewer edicts against publishing names of those who must be hospitalized. So, this should make everybody happy?!

GEORGE

Washington Merry-Go-Round

General Orders Book Recalled

WASHINGTON — In an outrageous goof, the U.S. Army has published a madcap 433-page encyclopedia which sees the world through John Birch Society glasses and ties the Nixon administration to the "communist conspiracy."

Entitled "Communist Party, U.S.A.," it lumps the administration, the United Nations, the Supreme Court, Dr. and Mrs. Martin Luther King, Health, Education, and Welfare Assistant Secretary James Farmer and many others into the same communist cauldron.

Jack Anderson

The 1,045-copy edition was so extreme that when Army Signal Center Commander Brig. Gen. Richard Horne III—whose unit published the book—finally read it, he ordered every copy immediately recalled.

Horne quickly ran down the 137 copies given to school instructors and to his staff. The general thought he had collected most of the others, but one of the volumes was smuggled to this column.

The thick book cost $2,425 to print, plus many more dollars to prepare. It was issued by the Center's "Office of Doctrine Development, Literature and Plans," a sort of Stone Age "think tank," to judge by the encyclopedia.

The Doctrine developers begin ominously:

"The Communist threat is not, as some would have us believe, a red herring — it is a red barracuda awaiting its chance to destroy us."

What value the book may have is destroyed when it makes "red barracudas" of the Kings, Farmer, cartoonist Jules Feiffer, writer George Plimpton and other liberals who have often harshly condemned the Soviet system.

The text reaches the height of absurdity by quoting a Communist defector — who once claimed he was heir to the Czarist throne — as an expert on State Department matters. The State Department was full of Reds in the 50's, says the volume, and "very little has changed."

"The Executive branch was and is the most vulnerable for Communist infiltration," conclude the writers, speaking of the present administration where the most famous Red-hunter of them all, Richard Nixon, is firmly in the White House.

The experts at Fort Monmouth Signal headquarters also dismiss the United Nations as "Soviet-oriented," an opinion that will no doubt surprise the Soviets.

And the U.S. Supreme Court gets an ear-boxing from the Signal Corps pundits for making it easy for the communists to "infiltrate all branches of government."

In fact, the only three organizations in America free of communist odors, to judge by the book, are the FBI and those relics of the McCarthy era, the House and Senate Internal Security committees.

Brig. Gen. Horne told my associate Les Whitten that he had destroyed all volumes he could find except for two file copies.

"I felt that the material ... could very easily be misunderstood," he explained. "It was never used ... by students."

Horne contended he did not know for sure who wrote the book and said no disciplinary action has been taken.

—Absent-Minded Dole—

Bob Dole of Kansas gave a holier-than-Thou lecture to fellow Senators on their lack of ethics during a recent debate on Vietnam.

George McGovern, D-S.C., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., should register as lobbyists if they are going to solicit funds for the "amendment to end the war" drive, he declared and said he would introduce a bill to force them to register.

Dole apparently has a short memory. This column has one of his official Senate letterheads soliciting donations up to $1,000 for Radio Free Asia. ROFA is a propaganda organization whose "advisory council" consists largely of right-wingers, including some old China Lobby members.

Last year Dole used his Senate stationery to seek $1,000 gifts for the American Security Council, then propagandizing for the ABM.

Dole, one of the most faithful Nixon backers in the Senate probably will have second thoughts about pushing his bill because it would embarrass such Nixon supporters as Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who uses his official letterhead to tub-thump for the conservative Young Americans for Freedom; Sen. Barry Goldwater, D-Ariz., who has asked the Justice Department to investigate McGovern and Hatfield although Goldwater himself has done the same lobbying for YAF; Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.; Sen. Ed Gurney, R-Fla.; Rep. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., and Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., all of whom used their letterheads to raise money or lobby for right-wing causes.

—"Yuck"—

Americans as far inland as Montana are howling to their Senators and Congressmen about the tar-like "yuck" on the nation's East Coast beaches.

In a private letter to David Dominick, Fedral Water Quality Administrator, Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., told of vacationing constituents' letters and asked for an investigation of where the "yuck" comes from and "what we are doing about it."

Seats Are Assigned

The individual seats in the U.S. Senate are numbered and assigned on request of senators in order of their seniority. Democrats occupy the west side of the chamber, on the vice-president's right; Republicans sit across the main aisle to his left.

Looking Backward

Ninety-five Years Ago

About half past eight last night a fire was discovered in a large two-story frame house on the corner of Ohio and Seventh streets, owned by John W. McVey, and which has been unoccupied for two or three days. Citizens became busily engaged with buckets of water in keeping the fire down until the fire company arrived to extinguish the blaze with an immense stream from the water works. Mr. J. H. Bothwell and others who were on top of the burning building when the water was turned on, got a thorough wetting before they could reach the ground.

The People's Choice?

Eskaton Profits; Public Benefits

By DAVID POLING

OAKLAND, Cal. (NEA)

Whenever a nonprofit, charitable corporation makes money, the public is surprised and puzzled. The image of a nonprofit organization is usually one of deficit finance, cautious leadership and housing in a past-tense building. Eskaton, headquartered in Oakland, Calif., is the reverse.

This group of ministers and laymen (all brands and denominations) is on the top scale of salaries, plunges into multimillion-dollar housing projects and health-care units, leases airplanes for instant commuting and expects 30 per cent growth annually. Eskaton is eager to serve the needs of humanity and tired of waiting for the church, government or private enterprise to get on board.

Josh Wilson, chief executive officer of Eskaton, insists that the nonprofit tax shelter does not mean that his corporation should run in the red. He believes that nonprofit groups like Eskaton should expect high performance in hospital administration and housing projects—performance that makes a profit which will give the public more and better service. Instead of paying a dividend in cash to investors, the public should receive greater service. In the Eskaton hospitals that this writer visited, the public is enjoying a first-rate bonus in care and services.

While there has been no advertising or national publicity for Eskaton, a constant flow of mail lands at headquarters. Hospitals and health care agencies that are ailing seek advice or plead for an Eskaton management takeover. Church officials, community leaders, physicians and administrators from Florida, Texas, Missouri and Arizona are in touch with Eskaton.

Josh Wilson is besieged by clergymen who want to be part of his growing empire and see the larger ministry that he has established that is free from bureaucratic budgets and ecclesiastical committees. Businessmen are intrigued by his competent handling of million-dollar budgets and the professional staff that has been assembled to make this Christian service agency hum. Medical people have been impressed with the Eskaton operation of the American River Hospital in Sacramento, the Mt. Shasta Community Hospital and the County Hospital in Colusa, Calif. Government funding officials are eager to consider Eskaton applications since they deliver such a high level of service, maintain rigid internal audits and are free from narrow doctrinal ambitions.

Yet Eskaton is a Christian effort. Josh Wilson wants the Christian community to be saturated with risk for the sake of mankind. He is determined to see Eskaton as a functioning model of ecumenicity and is able to work with conservatives and liberals alike. Presently he is working on a book dealing with bureaucracy and religion. His first publishing effort was a private distribution of material for worship, aimed at the underground church and house study groups. It sold more than 5,000, entirely by word of mouth.

The explosion of energy and vision that has marked the appearance of Eskaton is due to the fierce dedication and loyalty of the Eskaton crowd. Wilson, like Billy Graham and Oral Roberts, is a powerful speaker and a commanding person. But for Wilson, evangelism is found in health, housing and education. The 21st century may prove him to be correct.

(The Reverend Poling is president of the Christian Herald Assn.)

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Avoid Undue Tension In Raynaud's Disease

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Raynaud's disease is characterized by a temporary blanching of the fingers of both hands followed by a bluish tinge, then, with a return of the circulation, redness. Because a primary and secondary type of this disease are recognized, it is important that a doctor determine which type a victim has.

Primary Raynaud's disease occurs more frequently in women than in men. The onset may occur at any age but is usually in the 20s or 30s. The disease is caused by spasms in the smaller arteries of the fingers, followed by dilation. The underlying cause is not known but nervous tension may be a contributing factor. There is no direct evidence that smoking is a cause but excessive smoking is often a sign of extreme tension and, since nicotine does cause constriction of the arteries, the victim should give up smoking.

Exposure of the hands or the whole body to cold will usually precipitate an attack. The primary type usually responds well to treatment and the victim may outgrow the disease in her late 30s or early 40s.

Several new drugs that dilate the arteries have been used but a nitroglycerin tablet (1/200 grain or 0.3 milligram) placed under the tongue is still the best. It is advisable to use one of these tablets 10 minutes before going outside in cold weather.

The most important part of the treatment, however, is avoidance of undue tension and protection of the hands. Before going outside in winter, put on an overcoat, scarf, hat, ear muffs and gloves. If you must use your car, start the motor, turn on the heater, open the garage door, than go indoors until the engine is warm before driving off. Always wear gloves to remove anything from the refrigerator. Massage your hands three or four times a day with Polysorb Hydrate Lotion, especially just before retiring at night.

We didn't sweep the boards in Stockholm. The open pairs was won by Austria and Italy came in second and third. Fourth place went to Ira Rubin of Paramus, N.J., playing with Jeff Westheimer of New York.

Rubin is one of the great theorists. Some players think he would do better if he gave up some of his science for flying by the seat of his pants.

All conventions are allowed in a world's championship and Ira came up with a beauty for this one.

He invented a multipurpose two bid in any suit but clubs. This bid would usually show a weak two bid in the next suit but might show a very strong distributional hand in the suit bid.

This time Ira had the strong hand. Jeff's response of two spades said, "If you do have a weak two bid, let's play it there."

Ira's two no-trump call was the third straight artificial bid of the hand. It said, "I have a strong hand with a solid seven-card heart suit."

They were sort of apologetic about Jeff's three-club call. It actually showed clubs. Ira's three-spade bid showed the ace, invited a slam mildly and warned about the diamond suit in case Jeff was thinking about no-trump.

Jeff's four no-trump call was plain old-fashioned Blackwood, as was Ira's five-spade response to show three aces.

This was enough for Jeff. He counted to 13 and bid seven no-trump to get the maximum match point score.

The Old Elm

The elm on the courthouse
Lawn is dead,
Tall and straight
With massive spread,
How many years
Has it stood there
Shading the west
Of the courthouse square?
Like a great sentinel
Guarding the place
With sunlight of summer
Making shadows of lace
Over the sidewalk
And benches below
Where sit elderly men
With no place to go
Where they meet and talk
With old friends or new
Or just idly sit
Watching what comes in view,
Beneath the big elm
So many folks sit,
A wide band around it
Is plain to see
An effort to save
That big dying tree;
We knew it was there
For often we've seen
Its glorious beauty
With leaves a dark green,
We've passed by or near it
Day after day,
Glanced at it often
From across the way,
We've walked 'neath its branches
Along the curved walk,
Or, meeting some friend,
Have stopped there to talk,
We've seen it in winter
Its great branches bare,
But always, yes always,
The old tree was there,
And we always knew
The next season would bring
The bursting of buds
And the leaves in the spring,
Yes, we knew it was there
As we hurried on by
But to know what it meant
That tree had to die,
Now bare in the summer
It looks so immense
Even more so than when
Its leaves were so dense,
It gives one a start
For no shadows are cast
In its place it still stands
Like a ghost of the past.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The new boundary line between Mexico and the United States is in the middle of the Colorado and Rio Grande Rivers. The flirtatious streams were constantly changing their course until neither country knew where it started or ended. The Presidents of the respective countries have now settled that with Nixon's recent visit. Travelers will probably never know when they cross the border but at least the Presidents have agreed. Official treaties will have to be signed by the Senates of both nations.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q) Are tips taxable? I'm taking a job as a waitress in a summer resort and my girlfriend tells me that tips are very good there.

A) Yes, tips are counted as taxable income.

If your tips amount to $20 a month or more, they should also be reported to your employer so they can be credited for Social Security purposes. Your employer will make the necessary adjustments in your tax withholding.

GOOD GUTTERS REQUIRE FREQUENT TOUCH-UPS

By MR. FIX

Gutters and downspouts need frequent touching-up with paint, more often than the house does. They also require regular inspection and cleaning.

Even if you do not intend to paint this fall you may find that the gutters could stand a touch-up. And if you do plan to paint, getting the gutters out of the way now will make the large job go faster later on.

Take along a wire brush to get rid of debris when you climb the ladder to begin your inspection. Use a screw driver to probe rust spots for soundness.

Aside from leaves, you will find gutters cluttered with soot and grit washed down from the roof. Don't be surprised at a bird's nest as well.

With the debris out of the way you will be able to see the metal underneath. If it is sound some fresh paint is all you need.

If the metal is rusted, clean and sand it before painting. Use a wire brush for the big dirt, emery cloth for the final cleanup.

Before painting give the sanded area a prime coat. Some people swear by old-fashioned red lead. The newer rust preventative paints have the advantage of being able to be used over a thin coat of rust so long as the metal is sound.

No matter what kind of primer you use, get rid of all large flakes of rust and all dirt.

Tiny holes or cracks in the metal should be covered with asbestos roof coating after the metal has been primed.

Larger openings should be patched. Materials for patches are many and can be found around the home—roof felt, deck canvas, heavy aluminum foil, glass fiber cloth are examples.

First spread a coat of asbestos cement over the cleaned and primed area. Place the patching material over that. Spread more roofing cement over the patch, making certain you cover all the edges.

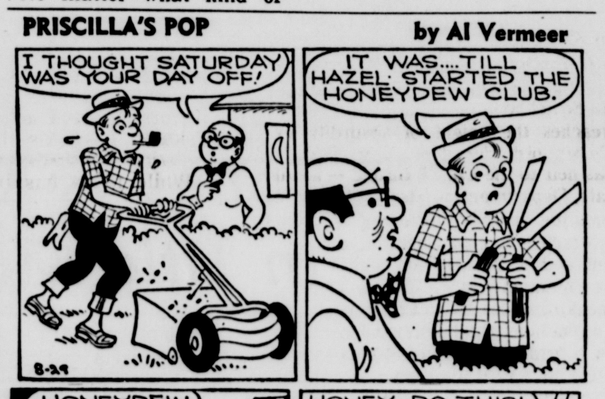

If the rusted-out portion of the gutter makes a good size hole, use metal for the patch. Find the same material as the gutter is made of. Dissimilar metals, although rust proof, will corrode. A chemical reaction occurs when the metals are placed together in the presence of water.

Corrosion also can occur from using the wrong nails. Galvanized nails in aluminum gutters, for example, will eventually lead to corrosion.

Even if you are sure your gutters are sound, give them a periodic cleaning anyway. Water will build up wherever there is debris. Eventually it spills over, staining walls and ruining foundation plantings.

Leavitt Drives His Super to New Title

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Eddie Leavitt of Kearney, Mo. grooved his supermodified from the pole position Friday night to capture the Missouri supermodified title on the State Fairgrounds one-half mile track.

Leavitt, who was locked in a fierce battle for the lead in the first 12 laps with defending champion Roy Hibbard of Marshall and 'Flea' Atkin of Holt's Summit, now adds his name to the elite corps of drivers that have amassed the state modified title.

Hibbard roared from his outside pole position on the third row on the initial lap and grabbed the lead, with Leavitt and Atkin in hot pursuit. On the eleventh lap, Atkin took over the lead slot as Hibbard pulled to a stop on the infield with mechanical trouble.

Atkin stayed in the lead until the 24th lap when Leavitt took over; from then on it was pretty much of a one car show for first place.

The Kearny, Mo. pilot started lapping the field late in the race, before yellow flags bunched the pack once again.

Following Leavitt across the finish line were Atkin in second; Tom Corbin of Carrollton in third, Steve Shultz of Chillicothe in fourth and Bill Utz of Sedalia fifth.

Utz was behind the wheel of Roy Cary's number 44 super out of Boonville and started well back in the field in 18th position, when the cars took the green flag for the night's feature event.

Jay Lyle of Warrensburg, who was a lap down on the first five cars, led the second five cars across the finish line.

Seventh place went to Bud McCune of Linneus; eighth to Cliff Lilly of Kansas City; ninth to Kansas City's Al Bodenhamer and Tom Makings of Marshall was tenth.

In 'B' modified action, Jim Braden of Windsor captured the 15-lap consolation race. He finished ahead of Excelsior Springs' Gary Ainsworth and Bob Thoman of Higginsville to nab the top prize in that race.

'B' modified heat winners were Bill Curtis and Thoman.

Gary Scott of Jefferson City was taken to Bothwell Hospital for observation following his crash in the feature event between the third and fourth turns.

Scott's super flipped and came to rest on the rail pinning him in the car. Fortunately he was not injured seriously.

In winning his initial Missouri State Championship, Leavitt pocketed the top prize of $1,000.

Tie For Third Round Lead In Dow Jones

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Bobby Nichols and Labron Harris swept pass the faltering leaders and surged into a tie for the third-round lead Saturday in the Dow Jones Open, the world's richest golf tournament.

Nichols, a 34-year-old club pro in Akron, Ohio, had a three-under-par 69 and Harris, a former National Amateur champion still seeking his first tour title, had a 70.

They were tied at 207, nine-under-par on the long, tough Upper Montclair Country Club course and held a two-stroke lead in the chase for the $60,000 first place prize.

Larry Hinson and John Miller, a couple of young look-alikes, followed at 209. Hinson had a 70 including an eagle three and Miller, like Hinson, a tall, skinny blond, had a 69.

Of the three men who shared the lead going into Saturday's play, only Australian Bruce Crampton could remain in contention.

Crampton had a 74 for 210 and was tied at that figure with Homero Blancas and threatening Jack Nicklaus. Nicklaus had a 69 and Blancas a 70.

Veteran Paul Harney and Orville Moddy, tied for first with Crampton going into the day, fell far back. Harney took a horrendous 82 and Moody stumbled in with a 75.

"I thought I played pretty well," said Nichols, a former PGA champion who scored his last tour victory in the 1966 Minnesota Classic.

"I was particularly pleased with saving par on the last two holes."

He was in a trap in each, sank a 12-foot putt on the 17th and blasted out to within three feet of the final hole.

Harris, a 6-foot-4 Oklahoma State product who has been on the tour for six years, took a share of the lead when he dropped a 4½ foot birdie putt on the 18th hole.

Arnold Palmer fell out of contention with a whopping 77 for 220, 11 strokes back. Masters champion Billy Casper took a 68 for 212, and was tied at that figure with PGA title-holder Dave Stockton who had a 73. U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin had a 77 for 218.

Crampton complained of the greens, calling them "very, very inconsistent. They take all the skill out of the game.

"It isn't skill when you hit an iron into the green and it bounces 30 feet."

He said some greens would hold and some would not. "It ought to be consistent," he said.

Nichols, a husky, hard-hitting player who was a high school football and basketball star, ran in an 18 foot birdie putt on the fourth hole, then bogeyed the fifth.

Uncertainty High For M.U. Tigers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Dan Devine, the man who has had fantastic success as coach of the University of Missouri football team, probably never started a season with more uncertainty than this one.

Devine, who in 12 years at the Tiger helm has watched his clubs lose only 31 times, knows very well that Missouri finished the 1969 season as the nation's No. 6 team. He won't say the 1970 Tigers will be that good. Neither will he say they won't. He doesn't know.

He notes with interest that Missouri has been generally established as the pre-season favorite to capture the Big Eight Conference title which the Tigers shared with Nebraska last year. He knows that if the Tigers do win the conference championship, that will likely be good enough for at least sixth place in the national rankings.

"We've always had a No. 1 guy at Missouri" Devine says. "We don't have one this year. We have problems. Right now, I couldn't name a starting lineup. We have no seasoned defensive backs. We don't know who'll play quarterback or who will do the punting or the kicking on field goals and extra points. There are probably teams in the Big Eight with fewer question marks than Missouri."

Still, deep down inside, Devine knows he had the makings of a good, sound team. How quickly it will jell is the big question. One thing is certain: Things have to progress quickly if the Tigers hope to duplicate or better last year's record of 9-2.

"Looking at the middle of our schedule," Devine says from memory, "I see that we have Nebraska, Notre Dame, Colorado, Kansas State and Oklahoma —back-to-back. So, there's nothing I can say that would be the least bit funny.

"I don't know what to expect. Certainly, we have some great players. If we can overcome the question marks, we'll have a darned good football team at Missouri."

Missouri's quarterback will be either Mike Farmer or Chuck Roper. Both are Juniors. Neither owns a Tiger football letter.

"Farmer can pass better than most people think," Devine says. "Roper can run better than most people think. Both are good leaders. Whoever turns up as the best passer probably will get the job."

There are two excellent reasons for Devine to lean toward the best passer——ends Mel Gray and John Henley. Gray is likely the fastest collegiate receiver in the country. He caught 26 passes for 705 yards and nine touchdowns last year. Henley grabbed four touchdown passes.

Six 1969 starters are back to form the backbone of Missouri's I-formation offense, including Gray, tackle Larron Jackson, guards Dan Kelley and Mickey Kephart, center Bob Wilson and halfback Joe Moore, the nation's No. 3 rusher who netted a Tiger record of 1,312 yards and five touchdowns in 10 games.

Five of the defensive starters from a year ago give Devine a good nucleus. They are end Mike Bennett, tackle Steve Mizer, guard Adam Vital, linebacker Nip Weisenfels and halfback George Fountain. Also ready is senior tackle Rocky Wallace, an All-Big Eight performer in 1968, who saw little action last season because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

Missouri's best player from the sophomore ranks is Jack Bastable, a halfback, who possibly will get the kicking assignment. He was the freshman team's leading rusher until he was injured last fall.

Other sophomores who undoubtedly will see a lot of action are halfback Mike Fink, regarded by Devine as a good prospect for either offense or defense; center Scott Sodergren, offensive tackle Chris Kirley, defensive guard Pete Ramierez and tight end John Matuszak.

"I don't honestly think there's any way we can be as good a football team this year as last," Devine says, but adding quickly: "... not at the start of the season. Our teams have always jelled. I've never been disappointed. I will be disappointed if this team doesn't come along and play well."

Wiseman Making Bid

Jack Wiseman

With the 1970 International Rodeo Association season in full swing, the 1969 IRA All-Around Champion, Jack Wiseman, Jr. of Houston, Tex., is making a strong bid to repeat his honor.

Jack has earned $8,994 so far this year competing in the bull riding and steer wrestling events.

Wiseman leads fellow Texan Glen Bird by a slim margin of $500. The lead could switch several times before the 1970 season draws to a close. Bird of Weatherford, Tex., competes in the bareback and bull riding events on the IRA trail.

Other event leaders in the IRA standings to date are Tom Stovall (Ada, Okla.) in the saddle bronc division; Ronnie Williams (Ft. Worth, Tex.) in the bareback riding class) Dub Grant (Benton, Ark.) calf roping division; Ray Barton (Collinsville, Okla.) in steering wrestling; Ronnie Rasco (San Diego, Calif.) team roping and Sue Klutts (Oklahoma, Okla.) in the women's competition.

Event champions for the IRA will not be named until after the first international finals in Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 4-7, 1971.

The annual IRA convention will be held in conjunction with the international rodeo event.

Jones vs Kirby In Title Match

Natureboy Kirby

Rufus Jones

Professional wrestling resumes in Sedalia Tuesday night with a four-event program scheduled at Convention Hall.

Boisterous Natureboy Kirby will be on hand to defend his U.S. Central States championship. The stocky Indianan will risk that belt against a challenge from powerful Rufus R. Jones.

Jones will match his nearly 280 pounds and considerable strength against Kirby's power offense. They're scheduled over the best of three falls.

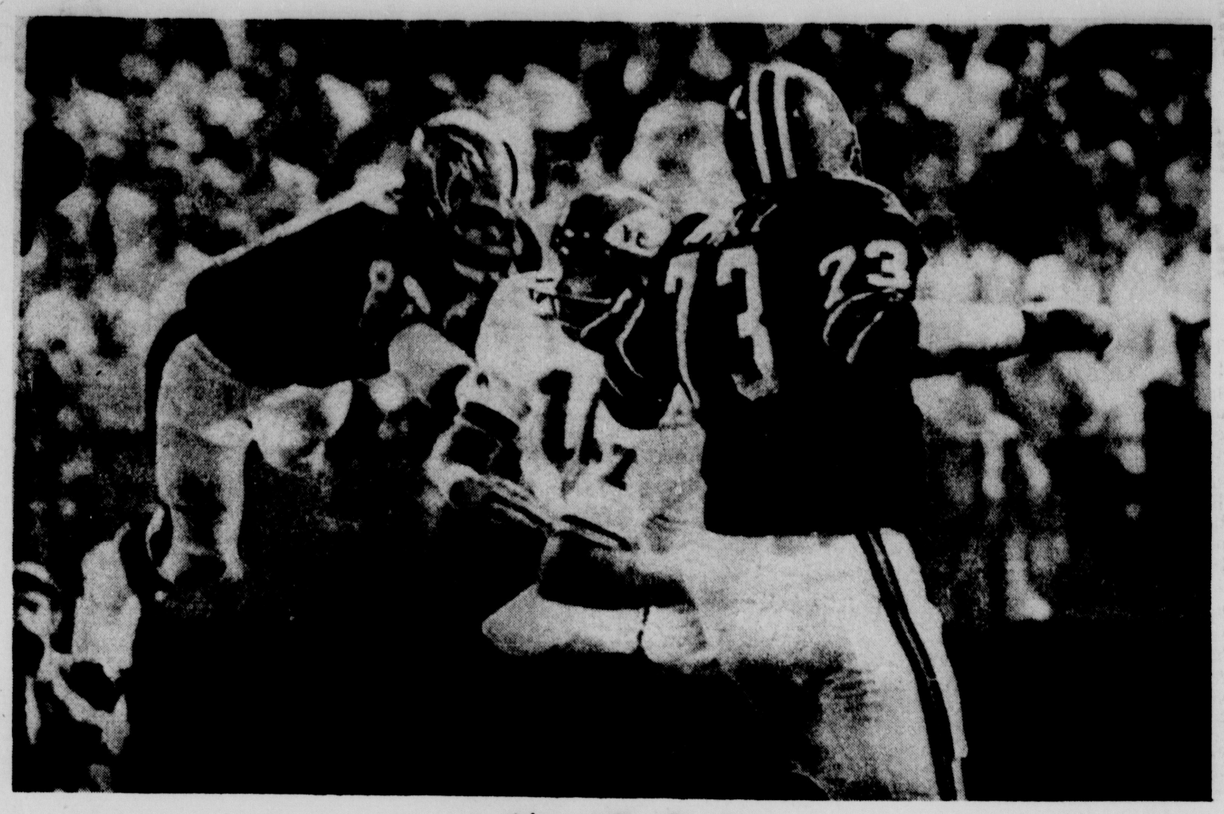

For Jones, it will be a big opportunity. The ponderous heavyweight has been pointing to a showdown with the muscular Kirby for some weeks now.

Veteran Bob Geigel, another ranked high in the race for a title shot, will be in action in Tuesday's semifinal. He's pitted against young and aggressive Harley Race.

Race would like nothing better than to block Geigel's bid to get by the Iowan and earn a title shot. He has the speed, agility and moxey to get that job done should the crafty Geigel make a mistake.

Steve Bolas and the Viking are matched in what promises to be a test of classical wrestling ability. Both are seasoned heavyweights who prefer a skilled approach to that of roughing it.

Two newcomers will meet in the opener at 8:30. They are Gato Gordo and Bob Burns.

About To Get It

Chiefs Lose To Falcons, 'Big Red' Dump Bears

ATLANTA (AP) — An electrifying 98-yard return by Tom McCauley of a field goal attempt and two field goals by rookie Kenny Vinyard paced the Atlanta Falcons to a 22-17 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs in a National Football League exhibition Saturday night.

With the Falcons leading 13-10 in the third period, Jan Stenerud attempted a 55-yard field goal for the Chiefs. McCauley took the short attempt on the two and raced through a maze of defenders for a game-winning touchdown.

The Chiefs got a touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 34-yard pass from John Huarte to Otis Taylor making it 19-17 but Vinyard booted the second field goal, a 37-yard effort, with about eight minutes left in the game to insure the victory.

The Falcons jumped off to a 7-0 lead on the first offensive series with Bob Berry tossing a six-yard pass to Harmon Wages. Bob Etter, the Falcons' regular place kicker, booted a 34-yard field goal to make it 10-0 before the Chiefs snapped back in the second period.

Mike Livingston, subbing for Kansas City's injured first string quarterback, Len Dawson, tossed a 12-yard pass to Robert Holmes for the score.

Stenerud tied it in the third period at 10-10 with a 22-yard fiel,d goal. But Vinyard, a rookie from Texas Tech, put the Falcons ahead for keeps with a 52-yard foot a few minutes later.

While in St. Louis, rookie linebacker Don Parish's touchdown on the game's second play spurred the St. Louis Cardinals to a 24-3 National Football League exhibition triumph Saturday night over the Chicago Bears.

The Cardinals, containing the Bears and quarterback Jack Concannon throughout, rode two Parish interceptions to a 17-0 lead at halftime.

Pete Beathard took over for Jim Hart at quarterback in the final two quarters and directed the Cardinals to a final touchdown before the Bears scored on Mac Percival's 17-yard field goal.

The victory boosted the Cardinals to 2-1 in preseason play. The Bears record is 1-2-1.

Parish, drawing his first starting assignment, spoiled Concannon's return to the Chicago offense by intercepting the Bear's second pass and racing 11 yards into the end zone.

Lovercamp Takes 1st In Tournament

Jim Lovercamp

Unique among bait casters, Sedalia's Jim Lovercamp has taken home top honors for the fourth straight year in the State Fair junior bait casting tournament, which was held Friday.

Jim, who at 14 has been bait casting for six years already, is unique because he doesn't fish.

"I'll go fishing maybe two or three times a year, but I do most of my casting in the backyard," Jim explained.

For winning his event, Jim received a plaque, a ribbon and a set of fishing equipment donated by radio station KDRO.- His backyard practice

His backyard practice has earned him second place at this year's Ozark Empire Fair tournament at Springfield, besides his perfect record at the State Fair.

Jim credits concentration as the key to successful bait casting, which many top fishermen believe is a difficult art to master. He doesn't use any specially made quipment, just a Zebco 33 rod and reel combination that is available in any sporting goods store.

The young champion will usually try his skill on real water about a week before the Fair competition begins. "I'll go out to the bait pool on the Fairgrounds as soon as it opens and practice pretty hard until the tournament starts," Jim said.

His unique backyard approach to bait casting may have made him a champion caster, but it hasn't done much for his fishing.

"I've never really caught a very big fish in my life," Jim confided.

Motorcycles And Sprints At State Fair

Three-time winner and defending Missouri Futurity winner Jerry Blundy of Galesburg, Ill. heads the list of over 40 drivers entered in today's closing International Motor Contest Association race at the Missouri State Fair.

Blundy, who has won the last three 50-mile Futurities on the IMCA's only remaining one-mile track, is also the current leader in that organization's sprint car standings. He is leading Jerry Richert of Forest Lake, Minn. by 800 points; Richert is not entered in the race today.

Sedalia's Bill Utz, after flipping his number 56 Dean Hathman sprinter in last week's supermodified qualifications for the Missouri championship, is the only other Futurity winner entered in the field. He won over Gordon Wolley in 1966, Utz' initial year with the IMCA's spring division.

Such names as Jan Opperman of Beaver Crossing, Neb.; Tom Corbin of Carrollton, Mo.; Joe Saldana of Lincoln, Neb.; Dick Sutcliffe of Kansas City, among many other IMCA stars will be in attendance to vie for the $1,000 first prize and the coveted trophy.

Eddie Leavitt of Kearney, Mo., who won a feature event during the Winter Nationals, sanctioned by the IMCA in Tampa early this year, has also been inked for the Futurity. Leavitt won the Missouri supermodified title Friday night at the Fairgrounds.

Today's $6,100 race is the richest the Fair has ever offered and will bring to a close the $34,600 racing programs the IMCA has sanctioned during this year's annual event.

The Fairgrounds' mile oval will be busy in the morning too, hosting the American Motorcycle Association's 20-mile national championship race.

Such AMA stars as James Rice, Bart Markel, Chuck Palmgren, Jim Palmgren, Mark Brelsford and many other experts and amateurs are expected for the $7,000 race program.

The motorcycle time trials are set for 9 a.m., with the first race scheduled for 10 a.m.

Royals—Senators

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Frank Howard lashed his 37th homer, two doubles and a single Saturday night, driving in five runs and pacing the Washington Senators to an 11-4 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Howard, who belted 48 homers last year but failed to connect once at Kansas City, hit his first this year in the Royals' park off Al Fitzmorris in the opening inning.

Howard doubled with the bases loaded to deliver three of six Washington runs in a sixth-inning uprising that put the game under wraps. The five RBI hiked his American League-leading total to 106.

George Brunet replaced Senators' starter Frank Shellenback in the fifth and picked up his eighth victory against six defeats. Darold Knowles pitched the last two innings for Washington.

Mets—Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Cesar Cedeno's two-out bases-loaded single capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the 10th inning and enabled the Houston Astros to defeat the slumping world champion New York Mets 9-8 Saturday.

The Mets, who have lost five of their last six games, went in front 8-7 in the top of the 10th on singles by Tommie Agee, Cleon Jones and Donn Clendenon, the last two with two out.

But Tug McGraw, the fourth of five New York pitchers, walked pinch hitter Doug Rader, the ninth walk given the Astros, and wild pitched him to second, the fourth wild pitch by the Mets' pitchers.

Rader took third on Jesus Alou's infield out and Jim Wynn, batting for Joe Morgan, who had two doubles and two singles, also walked.

Ron Taylor relieved McGraw and pinch hitter Bob Watson singled off the glove of second baseman Ken Boswell, tying the score.

Reds—Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Lee May clouted a two-run homer in the 11th inning Saturday, giving the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Carl Morton, Montreal's rookie pitching ace, held the Reds to five hits until the 11th, when Johnny Bench poked a one-out single and May followed with his 28th homer of the year.

Ashe and Richey Lead Davis Cup

CLEVELAND (AP) — Arthur Ashe's over powering service and Cliff Richey's Texas grit carried them to victory over a pair of darkhorse West Germans Saturday and sent the United States into a 2-0 opening round lead in tennis' 1970 Davis Cup Challenge Round.

Victory for the cup-holding Americans appeared certain.

First Ashe, a 27-year-old cup veteran from Richmond, Va., used a crackling, 100-m.p.h. service to mow down Wilhelm Bungert 6-2, 10-8, 6-2.

Then Richey, 23, the stubby scrambler from San Angelo, Tex., whose fiery temper and unpredictability had kept him off previous Davis Cup Challenge Round squads, outscrambled Germany's highly-regarded No. 1 star, Christian Kuhnke, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, while reeling off six straight points in the first set.

The latter match, played in gusting 15 m.p.h. winds before a capacity crowd of 7,500 at the Clark Stadium court, just sneaked in under an approaching thunderstorm.

The doubles are scheduled Sunday with Kuhnke and Bungert coming back against the fresh American team of Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and Bobby Lutz of Los Angeles. A U.S. victory could make the final two singles a mere formality. In them, Richey plays Bungert and Ashe meets Kuhnke.

The West Germans—each 31, and self-described weekend players—swept through the European and Inter-Zone eleiminations to gain this first challenge in history for their country.

Richey was the surpirse of the first day's action.

The Little Texan brought repeated cheers from the crowd as he sent shot after shot past Kuhnke's lunging racquet.

Richey finished his dramatic performance with a service ace then leaped over the net with his hands high.

Football Viewing Is Good Today

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football League has created a dial-twister's delight for Sunday stay-at-homes with a pair of nationally-televised games.

The Green Bay Packers and Oakland Raiders clash in a late afternoon game at Oakland with CBS-TV looking in, starting at 6 p.m. EDT.

Before that one is over, NBC-TV will cover the New York Jets at Minnesota with 9 p.m. EDT kickoff.

The weekend exhibition schedule winds up Monday night with the Philadelphia Eagles playing at Detroit.

The Green Bay-Oakland game is a rematch of the 1968 Super Bowl foes and the first preseason game the Packers have played against a former AFL team.

Green Bay has come from behind in each of its first three games to win one and tie two others. Each time the late drives have been directed by Don Horn, who has taken over for Bart Starr, the Packers' No. 1 signal caller. The first two salvaged deadlocks against the New York Giants and Chicago Bears and the last one gave Green Bay its first victory, 35-34 over Dallas last week.

Daryle Lamonica and George Blanda completed 20 to 40 passes between them but the Raiders lost to Los Angeles 34-23 last week. Ken Stabler, Oakland's rookie left-handed quarterback who had six TD passes in two games, is expected back following his father's death.

Joe Namath figures to get his first game work of the year as the Jets visit Minnesota. The Vikings, of course, are still looking for their own Joe—Mr. Kapp—who remains locked in a salary dispute as does all-pro defensive end Carl Eller.

With Kapp still missing, Gary Cuozzo has taken over as Minnesota's No. 1 quarterback. Cuozzo was 12-for-23 for 183 yards and two TDs in the Vikings' 14-7 victory over Houston last week.

Namath, of course, watched glumly from the sidelines as the Giants won the annual intra-city clash from the Jets 28-24 last week. He directed the 24-21 victory against Minnesota last year—one of the last games the Vikings lost until the Super Bowl.

Philadelphia, winless in two games so far, hopes to give top running back Tom Woodeshick his first work of the season in Monday night's game against Detroit. Woodeshick has been nursing a bad knee.

Bill Munson and Greg Landry combined for nine of 11 passing last week as the Lions ripped New Orleans 31-17. Mel Farr caught three for 96 yards.

Second in Tournament

Debbie Lyles, 1805 West 4th, displays the trophy she recently won for second place, most fish speared in the four-hour scuba diving spearfishing competition event on Lake Table Rock. The meet was co-sponsored by the Sedalia Divers, Inc. and the Show-Me Divers of Joplin. Fifty-eight divers from Missouri, Kansas and Illinois attended the events which were sanctioned by the Underwater Society of America. Miss Lyles ia a member of Sedalia Divers club.

New Jersey Over California In LL Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Dave Shaver's two-run double in the second inning Saturday gave Wayne, N.J. a 2-0 victory over Campbell, Calif., for the 1970 Little League World Series Championship.

Chinandega, Nicaragua, beat Highland, Ind., 3-0 earlier for third place.

Steve O'Neil who pitched a no-hitter for Wayne last Wednesday, went the distance for the winners although he was touched for six hits and gave up two walks.

Shaver's double scored Ron Webb, who had singled and pinchhitter Bob Houghton who singled, then stole second.

Campbell had O'Neil on the ropes several times, but he managed to pitch out of trouble.

The Californians had two base runners with two outs in the first but Lank Rowland ended the threat with a fly to right.

Iowa Drivers Dominate Race

BULLETIN

Mike Derr of Keokuk, Ia., captured first place in the 25-lap sprint race for late model stock cars on the half-mile track at the Missouri State Fair late Saturday night. Derr's consistently good driving was in evidence as he also took third in the afternoon feature.

Second place in the evening event was grabbed by Fred Horn, Marion, Ia. Coming in third was Gordie Blankenship while fourth position was captured by Ron Hutcherson. Both Blankenship and Hutcherson are of Keokuk, Ia.

Although ten-time International Motor Contest Association stock car champion Ernie Derr was not here to defend his 100-Mile Missouri International title at the State Fairgrounds, the Iowa driving tradition was carried on by Fred Horn.

Horn, behind the wheel of 1970 Plymouth, carried away the first place prize of $1,000 in a time of one hr. 13:33.64. The time was better than two minutes short of the old mark of one hr. 11:27.98 set in 1962 by Dick Hutcherson.

Only three cars completed the 100 laps: in addition to Horn second-place finisher Ron Hutcherson of Keokuk, Ia., and Mike Derr, also of Keokuk, completed the required distance.

Young Mike, 23-year-old son of veteran IMCA campaigner Ernie Derr, posted his best finish ever in the International Motor Contest Association.

Gordie Blankenship, yet another Iowa stock car driver from Keokuk, grabbed fourth place.

Rounding out the top five was John Snow of Bolivar, Mo.

The race was virtually accident-free, but California, Mo., driver Gary Martin lost control of his 1969 Ford Torino between the third and fourth turns; the car suffered heavy damage.

Fred Whisler's car escaped severe damage when he lost control of his Ford Torino on the backstretch early in the race.

Gerry Harrison, Topeka, Kan., starting on the outside poll position and an early race-leader, was forced from the one-mile oval within the first ten laps.

The day's fastest time was set by Fred Horn; he was clocked at :40.31. Gordie Blankenship was second in the time trials at :40.53.

Rounding out the top ten were Lewis Taylor of Shawnee, Kan.; Fred Whisler of Liberty, Mo.; Jerre Wichman of Kansas City; Butch Hall of Russell, Minn. and Paul Wallis of Gardner, Kan.

Leonard Dale and Jim Hager were 11th and 12th.

The Missouri State Fair closes today with one more IMCA race scheduled to be run on the one-mile track.

CLEMENTE PASSES WILLIAMS IN HITS

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — On July 10th when Bob Clemente made his 96th base hit of the National League season he passed Hall of Famer Ted Williams on the hit parade.

Missouri Derby Winner

"Fair Chance," was booted in by Jockey Tom Fields for the big money in Friday's Missouri Derby held on the State Fair race track. It was the 16th consecutive win for the 5-year-old, owned by Miami, Okla., rancher, Charles Hoffman. Shown presenting the winner's trophy is Mrs. Ike Skelton of Lexington, Mo., Trainer Ray Lewis, Miami; Fields and Hoffman. Time was 1:45 for the 1 and one-sixth mile race for $600 plus trophy.

Humphrey Endorses Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate measure to halt U.S. battlefield actions in Vietnam has the support of former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, once an advocate for former President Lyndon B. Johnson's war policy.

Humphrey, titular leader of the Democratic party and campaigning in Minnesota for a Senate seat, announced his support of the McGovern-Hatfield amendment, saying, "It offers every possible protection for American military manpower and will bring our men safely home."

The amendment, Humphrey said in a telegram to Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., "together with a standstill ceasefire and the conduct of new free elections in South Vietnam, provides our best hope for peace."

Meanwhile in Friday's floor debate, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., scorned the measure as the "lose the peace amendment," adding he could not believe it had been introduced with any idea of becoming law.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., responded to criticism from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and others that the measure is a blueprint for America's first military defeat.

Hippie or Legionaire?

If his philosophy is "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em," then whom did Dan Taylor join? Actually the 68-year-old Dan, of Downey, Calif., has been in the American Legion for 50 years. He served as a private in World War I in Europe. He is now an honorary colonel, and performs special counseling services for the Legion, whose convention in Portland, Ore., coincides with an anti-war rally. (UPI)

Senate Battle Looming Over Big Ship Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northeast and Deep South shipbuilding interests, armed with the big guns from the Armed Services Committee, are streaking at full speed toward a collision in the Senate Tuesday.

The battle is over a $2.1 billion defense contract-sharing proposal — with Mississippi Democrat John Stennis, Armed Services chairman, and the Navy taking on Maine Republican Margaret Chase Smith, ranking minority member of the committee.

Launching floor debate on a military procurement bill amendment to require two shipyards to share equally in production of 30 Navy destroyers, Stennis made a detailed defense Friday of the Navy's choice of a firm in his state as the sole source of the new ships.

Stennis denounced the amendment advanced by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. Stennis said it would make Congress the "final and supreme contracting agency" and would set "a very bad precedent which would plague us for many years to come."

Muskie's amendment, supported by Mrs. Smith who has fired a series of blasts at the Navy's handling of the contract, would make "a farce of and undermine the integrity of the competitive process," Stennis charged.

A vote on the amendment is set for Tuesday.

Stennis praised the selection of Litton Industries' Ingalls Division at Pascagoula, Miss., over Maine's Bath Iron Works as winner of the contract for assembly-line creation of a new destroyer fleet.

Referring to Mrs. Smith's disclosure of reports of possible industrial espionage through leaks of secret bidding information prior to the award, Stennis said the Navy's intelligence service is investigating but, "I am told that no evidence of any leakage of information from Navy personnel has been uncovered."

Bracing Protest

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A bit of Women's Liberation chatter overheard on an Omaha Transit bus:

"I figured every woman ought to protest some way, so I threw a glass of cold water on my husband while he was taking a hot shower."

'Pressure' Is Denied By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic sponsor of an insurance plan to protect securities investors is at odds with Republican colleagues over his attack on alleged Wall Street interference with Senate business.

Although Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, complained New York securities industry representatives tried to pressure him into calling off a Senate subcommittee session, Republican Sens. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, John G. Tower of Texas and Robert W. Packwood of Oregon said, "None of us received any pressure or threats."

"In fact, the circumstances would seem to be the opposite to that implied by Sen. Muskie," the GOP senators said in a joint statement issued several hours after Muskie met with newsmen Friday.

"Industry and Treasury representatives have reported that pressure had been put on them to assure that a quorum would be present at the subcommittee meeting ... or else the insurance bill would be 'killed,'" the GOP senators added.

Muskie was the only senator in the Banking and Currency Committee hearing room when the doors were opened at the time of the scheduled closed subcommittee session to draft a final version of the bill.

Muskie contended securities industry representatives, through calls to subcommittee staff member Richard Richardson, "told me that if I didn't call off the session they would do everything they could to see that it wasn't held."

"I don't know that they called anyone else" on the subcommittee "and I'm not going to imply that they did," he told reporters. "But I want to make clear my position. I'm ready. I'm here. I'm ready to write the bill."

Six of the 10 subcommittee members would have had to be present before the panel could take action.

Subcommittee Chairman Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., issued a statement later saying the lack of a quorum was unfortunate. He urged Committee Chairman John J. Sparkman, D-La., to have the entire committee take up the measure shortly after the Labor Day recess.

The proposed legislation would set up a nonprofit Securities Investor Protection Corporation assigned to provide greater financial safeguards for customers of brokers and dealers—especially in situations where brokerage firms go bankrupt.

The measure would create an insurance fund financed by such things as assessments. The corporation would operate much the same way the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation protects customers of banks.

Ann Landers

Heartsick Driver Warns Pet Owners

Dear Ann Landers: I feel like a murderer, which I am, in a way. But it was a choice I had to make. A choice between hitting that beautiful collie puppy or running off the road into a telephone pole and maybe killing my wife and two children.

I was well within the speed limit. It was a perfect moonlit night. The visibility couldn't have been better. Then, out of nowhere, that beautiful puppy appeared. I thought for a moment he was going to make it. Then suddenly, for no reason, he stopped right in the middle of the road. I had to make the choice. So I ran over him.

The kids were asleep in the back. I'm thankful for that. The thump of the wheels didn't awaken them. But my wife was awake and she let out a small cry. We were both too heartsick to speak. Finally she said, "No point in going back. The car coming in the opposite direction ran over him, too."

The accident upset me so I had to go to the doctor to get nerve medicine. He told me I was lucky — that he knew of a whole family that had been killed because they tried to avoid hitting a cat in the road. So, I guess I should look at it that way. But please print my letter, Ann. It might alert dog owners to the necessity of keeping their pets off the roads. — Still Depressed

Dear Friend: Your doctor's remarks were most appropriate. Think about his wise comments when the guilt begins to overwhelm you. You did the right thing.

Dear Ann Landers: Help me, please. I am going with a very attractive man. He wants to marry me and soon. I cannot make up my mind. Here are the facts. He has been married and divorced twice. I would be lying if I said this does not bother me, because it does. He is one of the most impressive men I have ever met — handsome, well built, successful in his business and an excellent athlete. He is a man's man as well as a woman's man.

And now the drawback: he has a temper that flares up for no reason. I find myself weighing and measuring my words, never knowing what will set him off. One innocent sentence can spoil an evening. And when he gets mad, he gets physical. Last night he twisted my arm. I thought he had dislocated my shoulder, but it was all right this morning.

His temper outbursts occur about once every week or ten days. He is sorry later — then he is as sweet as apple pie. On balance, do you think he would make a good husband? My mother says nobody's perfect — that every girl must give up something to get something. What do you say? — Undecided in Boulder

Dear Undecided: Give up something else. A man who twists your arm during courtship might break your neck after marriage. This romance is like forget it, doll.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't think I am being morbid but this problem is keeping me up nights. I was married to my first husband (Mr. Smith) for 41 years. When he died four years ago we bought a double plot. I want to be buried next to him. I was married three months ago to Mr. Jones. What name should I have on my headstone? Wouldn't it look odd if Mrs. Jones was buried next to Mr. Smith? — Insomnia.

Dear Insomniac: The headstone should read "Mrs. Mary Smith Jones."

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Police Red-Faced At Robbery Auto

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — City police were embarrassed Friday when they learned an unmarked patrol car had been stolen from a maintenance shop.

Officers said they did not know the car was missing until it was reported involved in a robbery.

'Copter On the Scene At Right Time

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sgt. William Bumpus, in a police helicopter, saw three men run out of a liquor store and speed away in a car.

Alerted by radio of a holdup at the store, Bumpus and the pilot, James Wilson, trailed the car and called ground forces into the chase.

The men abandoned the car and fled through yards. A 17-year-old youth was shot in the left shoulder and captured. Police recovered $535.

Police said the youth was free on $5,000 bond posted after he was arrested in the July 20 robbery of an ice cream store.

Sgt. Bumpus also was in the helicopter that day and helped direct the chase and arrest.

The liquor store manager, John Risalvato Jr., 53, was wounded in the left shoulder by a ricocheting bullet. He said a robber apparently fired his gun by accident.

Record Enrollment In State Possible

JEFFERSON CITY — Approximately 1,082,000 pupils are expected to be enrolled in about 680 public school districts of Missouri when classes resume across the state late this month and early next month, according to State Commissioner of Education Hubert Wheeler.

"If our statistical projections are correct, 1970-71 might be the peak year for enrollment in Missouri," he added. Total enrollment in the state's public schools last year was 1,077,288.

Wheeler noted public school enrollments in Missouri have climbed each year since 1944-45 when the state total was only 620,844.

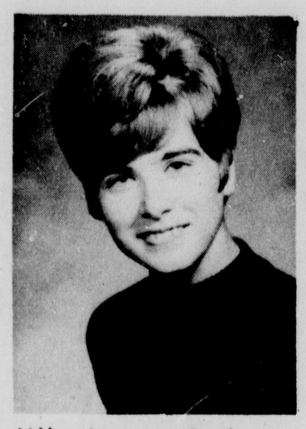

Other projections from the State Department of Education indicate 49,000 certificated personnel will be in the schools this year, with about 46,000 of that number serving as classroom teachers. The rest are superintendents, assistant superintendents, principals and supervisors.

Records also reveal some 55,500 students were graduated from public high schools in the state last year; about 3,600 school buildings were in use; and approximately 7,300 buses and other vehicles were used to transport students to and from school.

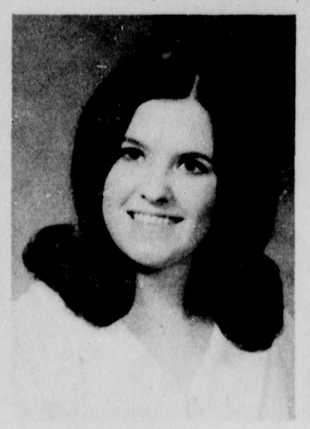

Additional statistics for 1969-70 indicate it was a record year for the state's school lunch program. More than a million pupils had access to some type of food service, and elementary and secondary students consumed 153,238,737 one-half pints of milk. "The school lunch program last year represented a $57 million industry in Missouri," Wheeler concluded.

'Art Fair' Is Scheduled By Council Sept. 11-13

The third annual Art Fair, sponsored by the Sedalia Council on the Arts, will open the council's season Sept. 11-13 at the Fine Arts Building at the State Fairgrounds.

Eligible for entry is work done in the past five years in any medium — painting, drawings, sculpture, crafts, prints or photographs. No more than two entries are permitted in any class.

All drawings, paintings, and photographs must be properly labeled, framed or matted and wired for hanging, accompanied by an entry blank, and — if intended for sale — a price tag attached to the back.

Previous exhibits in the council's Art Fairs will not be accepted. Entries in the adult group will be charged $3; student grades 9 to 12, $1, and the group from first to eighth grade, free.

Cash ribbons will be awarded in each group. Grand prize winner in the adult group will receive $50; first prize, $35; second $25, and third, $15. In the high school grade category, the first prize will be $10; second, $5; and third, $3. Elementary grade students will win $5 for first, $3 for second, and $2 for third place.

Entry blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Alvin Heynen, 2017 Fairview Court.

The Art Fair will be open from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. Sept. 11; from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 12, and from noon to 4 p.m. Sept. 13.

Work must be brought to the Fine Arts Building between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., Sept. 9.

Changes Made at S-C

Smith-Cotton High School will open officially Sept. 4, with a half day schedule planned. The first full day of classes will be Sept. 8, beginning at 8:45 a.m.

The 1970-71 school year will have several changes, and many new teachers have been added. Among the alternations in class curriculum is the switch from American history in the junior year to early and modern American history in the eighth and ninth grades.

The eighth grade course will include American history up to 1865, and the ninth grade course will cover the history from 1865 on. When the ninth graders become juniors, the junior American history requirement will be lifted, and the eighth and ninth grade courses will meet the requirement.

This year, a health course has also been added to the curriculum.

The area of sports has undergone changes, with soccer added to the schedule. The school is presently trying to arrange an inter-scholastic program with other schools. However, if that fails, an intramural program will be started.

With the purchase of a building across the street from the high school on Massachusetts, special education classes have been relocated to that building.

In the area of physical education, students will enjoy full use of all the land west of the main building.

In addition to the regular clean-up procedures to the buildings, the cafeteria air conditioners have been enclosed to eliminate the noise they formerly produced.

The new teachers added to the staff at Smith-Cotton include:

Gregory Cook, driver's education; Ronald Cowan, English; Larry Decker, social studies; Mrs. Charlotte Garrett, English; Willie Lee Jenkins, health; Miss Saundra Ruth Jones, girls physical education; Mrs. Juanita Nobles, language arts; Mrs. Catherine Truesdale, music; Ronald Wineinger, speech and debate; and Larry York, mathematics.

The school calendar follows:

Sept. 3 — orientation for all eighth graders and new students, 1:15 p.m.

Sept. 4, classes for half day, 8:45 a.m.

Sept. 8, first full day of classes, 8:45 a.m.

Nov. 5-6, school dismissed for state teachers meeting.

Nov. 26-27, Thanksgiving vvacation.

Dec. 23, classes dismissed at end of day for Christmas.

Jan. 4, classes resume.

Feb. 15, Washington's birthdav, no classes.

April 8, classes dismissed at end of day for Easter.

April 13, classes resume.

May 23, baccalaureate.

May 24, candlelight service.

May 28, commencement exercises.

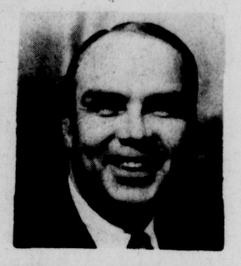

June 2, return for report cards, 1 p.m.

June 14, summer school begins.

Open Safety Campaign

With school openings just a few days away, the Automobile Club of Missouri and city officials are urging all drivers to watch out for children walking to and from school. Mayor Jerry Jones, left; AAA secretary Mrs. Lou Derendinger and Chief of Police Bill Miller opened the local campaign recently at the AAA office. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Mind Your Money

Urge Bike Rider To Exercise Care

By PETER WEAVER

Q — My name is Larry and I am 14. I own a bike with a three-gear shift and it has small wheels and high-rising handle bars. My mom read your article (about bike safety) and all of a sudden, after I had my bike for one and a half years, she felt I wasn't co-ordinated enough to ride it.

I want to put a "sissy" bar in back. If you can give my mother advice for me, I will be thankful. I liked your article but articles like this concerning me and my brother tense her up. — L.M., Los Angeles, Calif.

A — Larry, I have two boys myself and I know what you mean about mothers getting tensed up. I am sure that one and a half years' successful operation of your bike without a serious mishap proves that you are well co-ordinated and can handle it quite well.

When a young man gets really good at the operation of a bike, a car or any other potentially dangerous machine, he can become overconfident. Then he's ripe for a serious accident. The best way a boy can keep his mother (later on, his wife) from too much worry is to show her that he, too, is concerned about protecting his own skin and that he has taken steps to investigate the dangers.

Your bike has special design features which can make it a dangerous instrument in the hands of the unwary of foolish. Through experiments with these high-rise bikes, the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory learned that "the shorter wheelbase and smaller wheel size are detrimental to both lateral and vertical plane stability." The laboratory also found that "protuberances such as high-rise handlebars, gear-shift levers, seat backs (sissy bars) which can inhibit the rider to get free of the bike are potential safety hazards."

These bikes require skill (which you have). Treat your bike with the respect due any potentially dangerous machine and your mom should be less inclined to "tense up."

Q — Could you please inform me about the reliability of a home-study writing course? — Mrs. W. C., Holy Cross, Iowa.

A — You can get a directory of home study courses which have been accredited by the National Home Study Council, 1601 18th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009. Accreditation inspections are voluntary. If a name is omitted, it does not necessarily mean the school is unreliable.

With any of these schools, it's a good idea to ask for names and addresses of people (preferably in your area) who have taken the course. Check with one or two before signing up.

Q — We have a Motorola color TV for which we paid $609.95 in 1966. When the set was 16 months old, we noticed a crack starting in the lower left corner of the screen. Now the crack is gradually moving up the screen. We have received no reply from a letter to Motorola. What do we do? — Mrs. L.H.W., Manchester, N.H.

A — Motorola can't find any correspondence on your case. The distributor in your area made a personal inspection of your set and found that the defect in the face-plate attached to the picture tube is covered by the company's policy "for special circumstances." The tube will be replaced.

Any Motorola owners having problems that can't be resolved locally should write: Mr. Garth J. Heisig, Motorola Consumer Products, Inc.; 9401 W. Grand Ave.; Franklin Park, Ill. 60131. Let me know how things work out.

Q — My mother passed away and left $5,000 to be divided equally between two children. Do we have to pay an estate tax or other tax on this ? — Mrs. A. J. M., Springfield, Va.

A — Internal Revenue Service says no tax or return is required unless the estate is in excess of $60,000. You must, however pay a state inheritance tax in the state where you live. Check with your local state government office for instructions on filing this return.

(Peter Weaver welcomes questions from readers for possible use in his column. Please send letters to him in care of this newspaper.)

More Help For Widows and Children

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ray Cromley, military analyst for Newspaper Enterprise Association, is the author of "What You've Got Coming in Benefits for U.S. Veterans". This is the 13th in a series.)

By RAY CROMLEY
Enterprise Publications

Ever if a veteran dies a natural death or is killed in an automobile accident on the way to work as a salesman or catches the flu and dies, his wife and children may be eligible for a Veterans Administration pension.

These pensions are paid to the widows and children of men who die of old age, disease or injury that is in no way connected with their military service. But the veteran must have served in wartime.

A veteran's children are eligible for payments, either as part of the family after a widow dies or remarries, or in their own right, if the widow is ineligible, if they are unmarried and under 18 — or up to age 23 if attending a VA-approved school. However, young men and women receiving aid under the Dependents Educational Assistance Program or War Orphans Education Program are not entitled to further aid under these VA pension rules.

A veteran must have served 90 days or more of active duty in the Spanish-American War, World War I or II, Korea or in the Vietnam period to make his family eligible.

This length-of-duty qualification is waived if the veteran husband was seriously enough disabled as the result of service to be receiving compensation. The veteran must have an honorable type of discharge (which includes a general discharge).

To be eligible when a husband dies, a widow with children must have an income of no more than $3,200 a year. A childless widow or one whose children are grown, may have an income of no more than $2,000.

To receive this aid, a widow must have been married to the veteran for one year, or have borne his child, or have been married to him sometime during the Spanish-American War, World War I or II, Korea or Vietnam or within 10 to 40 years after, depending on the war.

She must have lived continuously with the veteran from the time of marriage until his death, except where there was a separation due to the misconduct of, or procured by the veteran without fault on her part. (A widower of a woman serviceman can claim these benefits if he is, and was at the time of her death, permanently incapable of self-support due to physical or mental disability.) The widow must not have remarried. Or if she did remarry her new marriage must have ended in death or divorce.

In order to be eligible, she and the children must not have an estate "so large" that it is "reasonable" she look to the estate for maintenance.

A dollar-and-cents rule has not been established. The VA says "rules of reasonableness" are used and "each case is judged individually, giving consideration to type of property, amount of income, number of dependents and state of health." Children who become permanently incapable of self-support before reaching 18 may receive a pension as long as the condition exists — or until they marry.

There was another pension system in effect until July 1, 1960. Many widows and children are receiving benefits under that system. They may continue to do so, although they have the option of changing to this new system. But there are advantages and disadvantages to shifting, depending on individual cases.

Still See Welfare Plan Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's latest push for his welfare reform bill may speed up Senate Finance Committee action on it but the basic tug-of-war over the disputed legislation appears unchanged.

That was the view today of some of the bill's Senate supporters who said privately they do not think the President's statement will remove the opposition of conservatives on Finance.

This belief is based on the fact that, under the modification accepted by Nixon, the new family assistance plan still would go into effect nationally Jan. 1, 1972.

These backers said, however, they remain confident the committee eventually will report a bill and the Senate will pass it.

Nixon's announcement that he would accept the amendment of Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., in an effort to speed action on his proposal, would have two effects:

—The assistance plan would go into effect nationally six months later than originally planned. As the bill passed the House, the date would be July 1, 1971.

However, administration officials already had told Finance the mid-1971 time was impracticable because there has been so much delay on the bill.

—There would be three field tests of the program during 1971 to work the bugs out.

The administration's previous position was that tests already under way would be sufficient. These tests, being conducted by the Office of Economic Opportunity in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, involve a key new feature of the bill—regular income payments to the working poor.

Nixon said he regards this plan as "the most important piece of domestic legislation proposed by this administration." The President said he is "gravely troubled" by the Senate delay.

Man Electrocuted

NEVADA, Mo. (AP) — Chester Kash, 51, was electrocuted accidentally on his farm about 12 miles west of Nevada Thursday after his tractor broke off a power line pole.

Witnesses said the tractor hit a guy wire, causing the pole to break. Kash was hit on the head by the falling pole and also was struck by a power line.

Attendants at a Fort Scott, Kan., hospital said he died of electrical shock. His wife and a brother saw the accident.

Draft Evasion Cases Greatly On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecution for draft evasion is ten times what it was five years ago, says the Selective Service.

Convictions are fewer, partly because of a policy allowing a case to be concluded without a guilty judgment if a defendant agrees to be drafted.

In a statement, Selective Service said Friday the number of draft evasion cases prosecuted in 1969 was 3,455, compared with 369 in 1965. The figure for the first nine months of the 1970 fiscal year is 2,950.

Miniskirts 'Out' For Fall

PARIS (AP) — Paris said goodby to the miniskirt for winter this year and added a bit of an au revoir to pants as such. Pictures of the collections are being released today.

The newest pants are cropped, just like Oliver Twist's. And jackets that go with them are cropped too, stopping just at the hipbone. Why?

"It's younger looking," says "Coco" Chanel.

Courreges' are tabbed and strapped along battle-jacket lines and he shows some this year with ankle-length, barely flared skirts.

Even more than a jacket year, it's a cape season. They are stepping forth for every hour and every occasion. Postilion style shoulder capes appear on beautiful topcoats at Givenchy. Others enfold the wearer in plaid wools straight from the moors and Lorna Doone. And the fur-lined, hooded capes "for sleighing" would have done well on Anna Karenina.

Cardin likes caped ensembles and shows them over tunics or ankle length dresses or pants that are generally cropped.

Venet's sensational line of coats feature cape sleeves. The collections are full of divided culotte skirts and newest of all —breeches or knickers that tuck into high top boots.

Theme and color this year are part of a Russian invasion.

Not since 1814, when Russian Cossacks were in Paris, has there been anything like it—traditional embroidery, costumes, shirts, topboots, kerchiefs that turn you into a boujik or a member of a Mongol horde.

Designers like Yves Saint-Laurent and Sardin were in a bit of a wild west mood too. Yves does fabulous things with leather and decorates coats with gold nailheads and hobnail boots and belts. Leather has just run through all social barriers. Fringed boleros, tender colored evening dresses at Cardin, topcoats, skirts and ensembles are all in leather.

"I'd been singing almost all my life and I thought a lot of people knew it."—Singing star Diahann Carroll, expressing surprise at the number of people who confuse her with her TV role in a situation comedy.

"Women should remain women but should not always allow men to dominate our society."—Barbara Bye, New York women's liberationist.

"How could I do otherwise? That's just saying forget it to everything that daddy ever worked for."—Kathleen Kennedy, 19, eldest child of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy in explaining in a magazine interview why she continued to work "in the system".

That First Night Always the Worst

FORT MYERS, Fla (AP) — Police reported Friday that two officers responded to a family disturbance between a honeymooning couple.

"Their problem is getting used to each other," said the report on the bride, 70, and the groom, 80. Officers said they recommended family counseling.

To Be Honored

Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley Bullard II, of Kansas City, Missouri, will celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary on September 8, 1970. They will be honored by a reception given for them by their children on September 11th at the Kensington Ave. Baptist Church, Kansas City, Missouri.

They were married in Sedalia, in 1920 and came to Kansas City in October, 1941. They have 5 children.

Mae Allee Is Married To Harvey Meyer

Miss Mae I. Allee, daughter of Mrs. Eddyth Allee, Otterville, became the bride of Harvey E. Meyer, son of Mrs. Nancy Meyer, Otterville and Harry Meyer, Syracuse, in a double ring ceremony August 14 at Otterville Baptist Church. The Rev. Warren Haley officiated.

The bride wore a dress of white cotton lace trimmed with yellow and a headpiece of yellow and white tulle. Her corsage was of white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

Miss Violet Kerksiek was maid of honor and she wore a yellow cotton lace dress with ruffles at the neckline and hemline. Her corsage was of white carnations tipped with yellow.

Best man was Billy Joe Meyer, brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a gold and light green plaid dress with matching scarf and the mother of the groom wore a blue bonded knit dress.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over yellow and centered with a four tiered cake trimmed with white lace flowers and yellow roses.

The couple resides in Sedalia.

'Golddiggers' Are Great Gals

By GINGER MOORE
Women's Editor

Golddigger usually refers to a rather vicious scheming woman who attracts men solely for the purpose of releiving them of their money, but with the arrival of television's "Golddigger's" the term has come to quite q different meaning. The beautiful and talented young ladies who make up the group are interested only in careers as singers, dancers and actresses and attract men without even trying.

Eight of these lovely gals (two were ill and unable to travel) were in Sedalia this week to entertain at the State Fair. Their fast pace singing and dancing brought the crowds to their feet at all three shows and like the fantastic troupers they are they "left them crying for more."

Included in the group is one of Missouri's own gal's, Liz Kelly. Liz is a native of Kansas City and graduated from Raytown South High School. She's been "dancing since I could walk" and has appeared at the Starlight theater since she was seven.

At eighteen (she's the youngest member of the Golddigger's) she has spent nearly all her life in 'show biz'. Her first role as a trombone player in the "Music Man" she says she got out of pity. "I was seven and toothless and so short that the trombone was taller than I was," she says

Liz is very close to her parents and unlike many members of the younger generation she feels her parents have been a great help in pursuing her career. "Mom wasn't too happy about my going to Los Angeles by myself at 17, but she let me go because she felt I wouldn't be happy unless I tried."

Obviously Liz's parents confidence and trust wasn't unfounded. Within six months of her arrival, Liz had had a number of jobs in choruses on various television shows and made appearances in Las Vegas. It was on her Las Vegas job that producer Greg Garrison saw her and asked her to join the "Golddiggers."

"I was terribly flattered, but I wasn't sure whether the job was right for me. Now I'm awfully glad I did. The girls are just like sisters to me and we have a lot of fun together."

The tour the girls are on now takes them to a number of fairs, concerts and television appearances. During their stay in New York, they had the unexpected opportunity to appear on the Johnny Carson Show. "It was a ball, but we had such short notice that we were rushed to get our routines reworked to fit his small studio."

An only child, Liz seems to enjoy the 'family living' of the Golddiggers. "Ann, my roommate, and I really enjoy doing things together," she said. But when asked about sharing things, she answered, "everything but boyfriends."

The group of girls is made up of short-haired dimpled baby-dolls like Ann to the sexy sad-eyed gals like black-haired Rosie. Rosie is the captain of the group (and at 22 the oldest) and according to the girls she is a "big sister" to them all. Rosie handles all of the problems on the road, which can be quite a few judging from their appearances here.

Commuting from Warrensburg to Sedalia for their shows was very difficult and on at least one occasion while the girls were going from a show for the legislators to the grandstand area, they were refused entry because they didn't have "a red button." You'd think those gold costumes would get the girls in anywhere.

The girls enjoy the outdoor performances although at times "we feel we're dancing in space." Running in and out of town as they do, the girls rarely get to meet any one in the towns.

"I enjoy meeting people," says Liz, "but I get very attached to persons quite easily and find it hard to say goodbye."

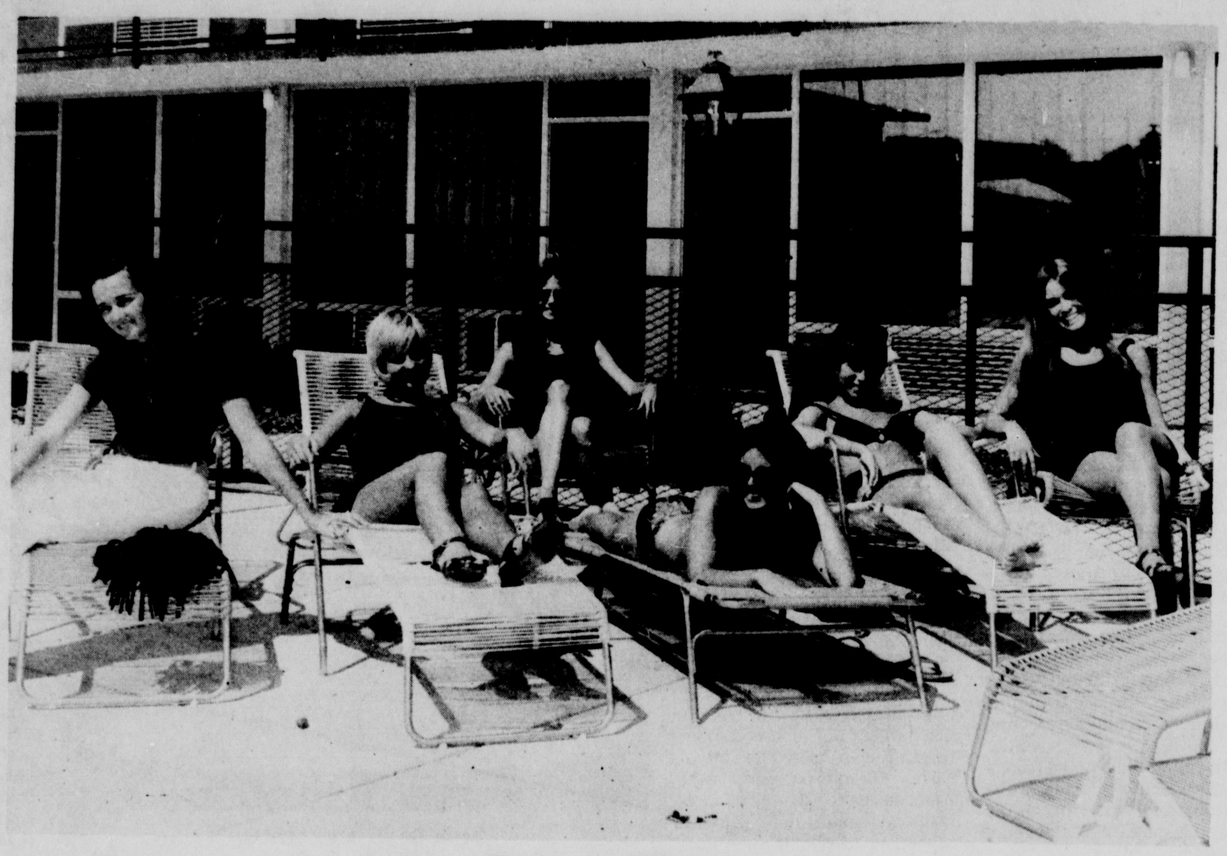

Boy friends, left at home, occasionally join the group for a day or two just to be sure their gals haven't forgotten them. The "Golddiggers" cannot be married and therefore the girls don't let themselves became serious about one guy.

The only thing bad about the girl's performance in Sedalia was that it wasn't long enough for each of the girls to display her individual talents. The cute novelty number about a "typical English schoolgirl" and an "all American girl" features Pauline and Rosie.

Pauline doesn't have to do much acting, however, as she is English and the newest member of the group. This is her first trip to the U.S. and she says, "it's really quite exciting."

Unfortunately the only thing typical about these girls is their cheerful friendly attitude because their talents are quite unusual.

Having the Golddiggers in town was like a fresh breeze, unlike the hot air of some well-known performers.

Between Shows

The "Golddigger's" rarely get a chance to relax during their tours, but while in town for the State Fair, the girls got in a little sun 'n swim time around their motel pool. While on the tour the girl's are pretty much on their own for makeup, costumes and hairdos and travel only with an agent and musical director.

Q — Why do they let funeral cars and the rest of the funeral cortege park on Broadway in front of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and block one lane of U.S. Highway 50& — E.S.

A — Police Chief William Miller said the necessity of having some place to park for a funeral near the church is the main reason for blocking the highway. He said he didn't think a funeral party should have to walk several blocks to the procession. Also, the funeral cars never block the road without first obtaining police permission and an escort, he added.

Q — Why doesn't Bothwell Hospital place a financial statement in the newspaper about every six months? — P.G.A.

A — Hospital Administrator Don Feeback said that an audited monthly financial statement is printed and delivered to City Hall, where it is part of the public record and can be read by anyone.

Q — Property owners on West 20th from Grand to Barrett keep their yards free from weeds, but the property owned by the old Katy shops has weeds 10 feet tall. Can anything be done? — H.C.L.

A — Sanitation inspector Arthur Bethke said the city has had numerous problems with the Katy property, and would seek the advice of the city attorney in finding a way to force removal of the overgrown weeds.

Q — To gain extra funds for Bothwell Hospital why can't doctors be charged a fee for using hospital equipment and facilities? — S.P.F.

A — Hospital Administrator Don Feeback explained that a cooperative effort between the hospital and local doctors is favored, since the hospital couldn't function without doctors. Not charing a fee is the best way to insure the organization of health care people to serve the needs of the community, he said. He also pointed out that in the past doctors have always contributed money to Bothwell Hospital building projects.

Q — Stop signs were recently placed on Missouri at the intersection with 20th. Missouri is a well-traveled through street and 20th is a seldom traveled short street, so why couldn't the signs be made facing 20th? — M.O.F.

A — City Engineer R. W. Cunningham said 20th was designated a through street between Limit and Ohio recently at the request of the traffic committee. The recommendation followed a study conducted about the streets. Missouri has never been considered a through street south of Broadway, Cunningham said.

Foreign Airlines Urge U.S. to Develop the SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to a Nixon administration request for their views, four foreign airlines have urged development of a U.S. supersonic transport plane by the late 1970s.

Executives of foreign airlines were asked their opinions in connection with the administration request for $290 million to start construction of two 1,800-mile-per-hour SSTs for flight tests. The prototypes will be built by the Boeing Co.

As endorsements from foreign carriers were being released, the SST continued under attack before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Dr. Richard L. Garwin, a member of President Nixon's science advisory committee, said one SST would make more noise than 100 of the big Boeing 747s now in operation. He said noise-suppression equipment would make the plane too expensive to operate.

J. Donald Reilly, executive vice president of the Airport Operators Council International, told the subcommittee Los Angeles International Airport already has banned the British-French Concorde, due in 1974, and the U.S. SST because of excessive noise.

Reilly said his organization, which represents major airports in all 50 states, is not against the SST but favors "an environmentally sound SST."

He urged Congress to amend the $290 million appropriation to require the SST to meet all noise standards in effect for slower-than-sound jets.

The Nixon administration contends the United States must develop the SST to keep its leadership in world aviation.

Executives of Alitalia, Qantas, KLM Royal Dutch and Scandinavian airlines endorsed the venture in letters to William M. Magruder, director of SST development for the Department of Transportation.

Several domestic carriers also have called for a U.S. SST.

Phil W. Howson, Qantas general manager-technical, wrote that the American SST, much larger than the Concorde, would relieve traffic congestion over the Atlantic and Eastern Pacific, because it would carry more than 200 passengers at 60,000-foot altitudes not used by today's jets.

Say 'No' To a Rock Festival

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP))—Nebraska officials have ruled against farmer Fred Beekman's attempts to schedule a rock festival near Odell, Neb., for the Labor Day weekend.

Gage County commissioners turned down his request for a permit. Judge William Colwell of the Gage County District Court then issued a temporary restraining order against publicizing or advertising the event. He did not set a date for a hearing on a permanent injunction. The county had sought the injunction.

Authorities said law enforcement officials would be too busy with Labor Day traffic to cope with crowds at such a festival, and that nearby communities were too small to offer facilities.

Beekman had planned to hold a "band concert" Sept. 4 through 7 on a farm he is buying.

After the judge's ruling, Beekman said he was undecided about his next move and wanted to consult an attorney.

Nebraska authorities had speculated Beekman might decide to hold the festival on a farm he owns near Maryville, Kan., if he were refused permission in Gage County.

Beekman laughed at rumors he might move the festival to Kansas or to another Nebraska county.

Beekman acted as his own counsel at the hearing and cross- examined witnesses. He asserted the festival would cause no more prolems than other large events, such as the Gage County Fair.

He contended that up to 80 persons had volunteered to help oversee the event.

Lexington Fall Festival Is Scheduled Next Week

LEXINGTON — The Lexington Fall Festival, Wednesday through Saturday, will have a new look this year. Instead of the congestion of the Lafayette County courthouse square, the festival will be held in the natural environment of Lion's Park, on the east side of Lexington.

The park, nestled in the foothills overlooking the Missouri River and boasting a 25-acre lake, will provide a unique setting for the antique beer and garden and carnival, which will highlight the festivities, according to organizers.

The Fall Festival, expected to draw more than 20,000 tourists and visitors into this small rural county seat, will include exhibits of agriculture, home economics, flowers, a queen contest and a baby contest as well as the usual carnival midway.

Nightly entertainment will feature rock bands, "The Three" and "The Rising Suns," for the teenagers "The Five Stars" and "Johnny Nace and the Midniters" will play in the beer garden for adults.

The Grand Festival Parade will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday, and will include floats, horses, bands, antique cars and other entries.

The park and festival will be located at the intersection of 25th Street and Business Route 24.

Mount Nebo Church Prevails Through the Years

By MARY PROCTOR
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

BUNCETON — The importance of religion in the life of American settlers in the Mid-West is reflected in a pamphlet on one church's history, distributed at the celebration this year of 150 years of settlement of Mount Nebo Baptist Church.

Fleeing from religious prosecution in their homelands originally, the settlers took their faith with them as they moved to the rich uncultivated lands that opened up west of the Mississippi.

Began in 1820

Mount Nebo is typical of how neighbors living their daily lives far from one another made a point of gathering together for church services regularly. In June, 1820, a group of settlers met in a log schoolhouse a mile north of Bunceton to organize the church. Luke Williams, who lived five miles west of Boonville, was the first minister. Without fee he traveled by foot over a large scope of the wild territory, visiting members. To support his family he worked his farm.

The first meeting house was built by subscriptions from the settlers — very little in the way of money, but each contributed his share in work or materials.

In 1827, members split over the question of paying ministers and sending missionaries among the "heathen nations." The pre-missionary group met at members homes and in schoolhouses, calling their group "New Mount Nebo." They collected the first contribution fof foreign missions and took it to the annual meeting of Mount Pleasant.

Plans for a meeting house were drawn up in 1829, but not carried out for 10 years, when a building 26 by 40 feet was erected on a ridge a half-mile east of the present building.

Pastor of Church

The Rev. Alvin P. Williams, one of the most eminent Baptist preachers in the state, became pastor and proceeded with the new building. An eloquent speaker, his admirers swore that "if the New Testament were lost, he could reproduce it in correct order from memory." He received no pay for his services, though he traveled from his home in Lexington. In 1843 the members voted "to give him $100 a month for one conference and one Sabbath each month."

The church grew to include members who lived in parts of Cooper, Saline, Morgan and Pettis Counties. As the membership grew, arms of the church were established.

The first arm in Pettis County was established at Providence, three miles southwest of Clifton City, in 1842. In the next few years, arms were established in the county at Pleasant Hill, Flat Creek and Clear Creek, watched over by the mother church at Mount Nebo.

Confer on Problems

Operating as a type of court to keep its members well-behaved, monthly conferences were held on Saturdays before the monthly "preaching Sunday." If members were not living together in peace and harmony, a church committee was appointed to investigate and try to straighten out differences.

The church members could be fierce in discipline. In May, 1836, a member was discharged for buying and selling slaves. Discipline covered a multitude of offenses, involving "card playing, drinking spiritous liquors to excess, fist fights," marital troubles, dishonesty in horse-trading, making false statements against the pastor, communing with other denominations, and non-attendance at monthly business conferences.

Dismissal was the penalty for dancing in public or for selling beer, cakes, cider, melons or anything of the kind within one mile of the church.

A new church was built in 1857. Much larger, 44 by 70 feet, it was divided by a partition down the middle to separate men from women worshipers. A balcony in back, where slaves could "mingle their prayers with that of their masters," was torn down in 1885.

Baptize in Creek

Baptismal services were held after Sunday morning services with immersion in Petite Saline Creek.

The grasshopper invasion of 1875 caused concern to the exent that the pastor asked his flock to set aside Tuesday, May 28 "as a day of humiliation and prayer to God for his blessings ... in removing of the devouring insects that were devastating our land." All neighboring churches were invited to assemble with them at 10 a.m. that day.

The annual association meetings had been held each year since 1829, with some delegates met at the trains. Others came on horseback and in wagons. The host church entertained the delegates in their homes, and prepared food for church dinners.

Electricity replaced gasoline lamps in 1940, and during the late 40's the church underwent extensive remodeling. Wood stoves were taken out, and three gas space heaters installed. The storeroom for stove wood was made into a nursery, the middle partition removed and plastering and painting done throughout.

Records of Church

The church records from 1829 to 1955 were microfilmed and presented at the Southern Baptist Convention in Kansas City in 1963.

In 1822, Mount Nebo was listed as having 36 members. This was the average after the schism over missions, at which time the membership had reached 69. In 1880, its peak attendance year, there were 162 members. With the rural exodus of the population the membership dropped to 68 in 1936, rose gain to 90 in 1956, and now stands at 70.

Over the years a total of more than $2,000 has been sent to missions — some in Ethiopia, China, Korea, and Belgium, as well as summer missions in this country.

The sesquicentennial pamphlet-history offers this observation, concerning the 150 years of Mount Nebo's servants:

"They were concerned about meeting their personal needs, and those of their families, and were obedient to a wider vision of service in Christ's cause throughout the state, the nation and the world."

Bank Joins State Chain

BONNE TERRE, Mo. (AP)— When the First State Bank of Bonne Terre opens its doors Monday it will be operating under a new name—the Commerce Bank of Bonne Terre.

Commerce Bank-Shares, Inc. of Kansas City, largest banking organization in the state, acquired controlling interest of the bank Friday after a 3½-hour hearing before St. Francois County Circuit Court Judge J.G. Swink.

The State Finance Division had recommended the bank be reconstituted with initial ownership capital of $750,000. James B. Crismon, former president of the bank, was charged Wednesday with embezzlement in connection with misapplication of funds.

Crismon, free on bond, tried to block the sale of the bank on grounds the state made a hasty determination that $678,988 in outstanding loans was not collectable. Judge Swink ruled against Crismon's petition for an injunction.

Penn Central Asks a Delay In Tax Bills

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Penn Central Railroad is asking for permission to delay paying $45 million in taxes due after last June 21 to some 2,600 governmental bodies.

The financially distressed railroad is reorganizing under federal bankruptcy laws.

The railroad's four court-appointed trustees filed a petition Friday in U.S. District Court asking deferment of all corporate and property taxes due from the June 21 date it filed for reorganization until Dec. 31.

"Because of the financial comdition of the Penn Central, including its present cash shortage, the trustees are without funds to meet all of the payments as they become due," the petition stated.

Judge John P. Fullam set a hearing on the request for Sept. 17.

She Says It, And Lives It, As She Sees It

Ask Them Yourself

FOR JOHN VOLPE, Secretary of Transportation

Please name the states where one can obtain a driver's license without a driving test?—M. Harper, Lanoka Harbor, N.J.

● There are none. Each of the 50 states, plus the District of Columbia, now requires some type of driving test before a license can be issued. Some states even require complete retesting for a license renewal (notably Illinois and Virginia at present).

FOR MSGR. PHILLIP J. MURPHY, Catholic Youth Organization

Is it against the Catholic religion to take drugs?—Mary Backes, Dubuque, Iowa

● It is a grave matter (mortal sin) to use a chemical whose effect is complete loss of reason unless there is sufficient cause prompting same, for example, anesthetic prior to an operation. Secondly, it is a grave matter to use a chemical which, of its nature or the compulsion (addiction) it brings with it, presents a danger to health or life.

FOR NORM CASH, Detroit Tigers

Why don't you wear a batting helmet?—Pam Serbantez, Battle Creek, Mich.

● I sometimes wear a batting helmet, but most of the time I wear a fiber safety insert in my regular uniform cap. This insert is legal, and I find it far more comfortable.

FOR JUDITH CRIST, film critic, tv's "Today Show"

What kind of background or streak of meanness provokes you to such a preponderance of unfavorable criticism of movies? They can't all be that bad—Paul T. O'Leary, Hill Road, Santa Rosa, Calif.

● You don't hear very well. I find something of merit in at least 20 percent of the films and plays I review on the "Today Show." Perhaps living in Santa Rosa, Calif., permits one to romanticize the Hollywood or Broadway product. Certainly someone who has to consider it in its entirety can't afford to be anything less than honest in her criticism and true to her own standards of taste, decency, and intellect.

FOR ANDY WILLIAMS

Who is inside the bear suit on your show, and who dreamed up the character?—Isabel Rutherford, Natchez, Miss.

● The bear was designed and built by former Hollywood stunt man Janos Prohaska at the request of my coproducers, Allan Blye and Chris Beard. Janos wears the suit and has perfected the many lovable traits and mannerisms seen each week.

FOR JOHN SHAFFER, Administrator, Federal Aviation Authority

Does the F.A.A. require more than one person to be licensed for flying on all commercial airplane flights?—Mrs. W. Harris, San Luis Obispo, Calif.

● Yes. Both pilot and copilot must be licensees, and if the plane requires a flight engineer, he also must have a Federal license.

FOR MARGARET BORG, president, National Association of Women in Construction

What is the "Women in Construction" group? How many members are in it?—Mrs. L. R., Utica, N.Y.

● Our association is comprised of more than 5,000 women who are employed in all phases of the construction industry.

FOR MAX BAER, "The Beverly Hillbillies"

On your show you said you finished sixth grade. Is that true?—Gwendolyn Griffin, Alexandria, La.

● I graduated from the University of Santa Clara, California. It's Jethro who just made it through sixth grade.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

What in the World!

Work Your Way to Europe No office girl can complain that she can't afford a European vacation any more—not if she has a skill and is willing to use it abroad. Gals between the ages of

On-the-job visit to London

18 and 54 can get a job in London, with air fare paid by the employer. They can even get some local counseling on how to find a flat (apartment) and/or a roommate. The catch? Well, the typical salary is only $45 to $55 a week, with some of that going for taxes. However, British girls manage on it—and Paris is just a short flight away. Though work permits expire Oct. 31, a permanent job can usually be arranged for the girl who wants to stay longer. For further information, write Dept. FW, Overseas Travel Coordinator, Western Girl, Inc., P.O. Box 3241, Stamford, Conn. 06905.

Owatonna's E.G. Actor E.G. Marshall is willing to tell his birthdate—June 18, 1919, and his birthplace, Owatonna, Minn.,—but all he'll say about his name is that E stands for Enigma and G stands for Gregarious. "And it's a real name in itself," insists the star of NBC-tv's doctor series, "The Bold Ones." The dignified, serious-minded Marshall started out as a night-club singer and guitarist. "I used the name 'Marvin Magillicuddy' for a short time," he quipped to FAMILY WEEKLY. "A drunk in the audience wouldn't let me finish my act until I told him my real name. So I told him the Marvin one, and that kept him quiet." Well, what is your real name, we persisted. What do your friends call you? "Eeegee," Marshall explained patiently.

Matching Competitors Personality is an important factor in contact sports. J. Roswell Gallagher, M.D., Yale University, points out: "The lighter, younger boy who has zest and a will to play is less vulnerable to injury than a larger but indifferent and lackadaisacal companion; so, too, the aggressive and alert boy in contrast to one who hangs back and has his mind on other things."

House of Card Are you ready to live in a paper house? Don't laugh; it may be your choice sooner than you think. This one, for instance, won a Fibre Box Association packaging design award at a competition in Washington, D.C. Yes, real people live in it—adults; and with the necessary kitchen and bathroom equipment, too, all factory built. Depending on their degrees of skill, it's estimated that three men could complete a basic 400 square-foot unit from a factory-built kit, in 10 hours or so. Actually, it's a giant version of the familiar corrugated box sprayed with fibre-glass coating. This makes a strong, flame-retardant double-wall, durable enough to last about 20 years, it's said. Not bad for a paper pad.

for as little as 21¢

To every professional pilot, weekend pilot, would be pilot, to everyone who has in his or her heart a desire to fly, Private Pilot makes this limited subscription offer. We'll send you America's fastest growing aviation magazine for as little as 21¢ a copy. It's like getting 30 issues FREE.

Private Pilot Is All New

A private pilot is a man or woman who is licensed to fly an airplane, and who can carry passengers in it. It's also a magazine. An all new magazine designed to cover the entire spectrum of general aviation.

We'll take you up in sailplanes and aerobatic aircraft, in the latest production airplanes, antiques, homebuilts, warbirds, and maybe even hot air balloons. We'll teach you cross-country techniques, how to get the most out of your equipment, and in general how to become as good a pilot as you can be. And we'll do it using crisp, informative writing, unusual graphics, eye-catching, provocative pictures.

We're Different

The people who contribute to Private Pilot such as photographer Russell Munson, writers Ernest Gann and Richard Bach keep their eyes and ears tuned for the newest and most interesting in aviation developments. They combine this with an urge to explore, to search out, dig down, and come up with features and stories that are fresh, different, exciting. It's why, whether you have 10,000 hours, or ten, you'll always find something in Private Pilot that's meant for you.

Get Off the Ground Today

Read about the latest in aviation, about new and old aircraft, about exotic places to fly to, and the planes in which to fly there. Enjoy the exciting fiction of Ray Bradbury and other famous writers while improving your skills as a pilot through the best basic instructions available. Even keep abreast of what's new in aviation fashions. Take advantage now of this limited subscription offer and send for the all new Private Pilot. Private Pilot —because there's more in it to read.

The Little-Known

The President's brothers, Donald and Edward, are

Edward Nixon holds carving of his famous brother Richard.

Donald Nixon, like Edward, tries to shun Presidential limelight.

When a lieutenant commander piloting a helicopter on routine Naval Reserve duty rescued two girls from a swamped boat in Puget Sound, it made big news. It would probably have been just a local news story had the pilot not been Edward Nixon —brother of the President of the United States.

A Marriott Corporation executive was visiting several European countries recently on a business trip for his firm and received royal treatment everywhere. But this red-carpet deference doesn't seem out of line when it's understood that the executive was Donald Nixon, President Richard Nixon's second living brother.

Even Aristotle Onassis, husband of the widow of the man who defeated Donald's brother in the Presidential race of 1960, extended lavish hospitality. In fact, Donald had never seen roses with stems quite as long as those Onassis had delivered to his hotel room.

Publicity and roses, however, are not the whole story of being a President's brother. For Donald and Edward Nixon, this role has meant pride and joy but also anxiety, apprehension, and sacrifices. This is so even though neither Donald nor Edward ever really got close to their brother Richard.

"Don and Ed," Evelyn Dorn, a close family friend told us, "have a normal relationship with each other but are in awe of Dick and always have been. And from the time he was Vice President, they felt the moves in their relationship with him were up to him."

Family closeness was made difficult, too, by the vastly different temperaments of the three brothers. Donald, who is 56, less than two years younger than the President, is outgoing and gregarious. Edward, who is 40, and was born when the President was 17, is tight-lipped and introspective. As a young man, Richard impressed his brothers as a loner—a thinker, and the one the family always knew someday would be "somebody."

There have been some moments of intimacy, however. There was the time when Donald, then a student at Guilford Preparatory School in North Carolina, and Richard, a student at Duke Law School, saved and pooled their money for their first trip to New York. There they bought their mother her first fur piece. And there was the intimate sadness of losing two brothers —Harold, the eldest, and Arthur, who was younger than Donald. Shared grief led Richard and Donald to hover over Edward, so much younger than they, and to worry about his health.

"One September," said the late Hannah Nixon, their mother, "on the day that Richard was to leave our home in Whittier, Calif., to return to Duke for the fall semester, his dad, rarin' to go and hating to be late, kept calling Richard for breakfast. But Richard didn't answer. When I looked for him, I found him hovering over Ed's bed. Ed was still asleep."

When Edward was in high school, Richard encouraged him to make extra money by selling rides in his car. "It isn't fair to Dad if you don't," Richard said. And, when Richard left for the Navy, he counseled, "Now, Ed, you take good care of your mother."

Just before his nomination, we were in the study of the Nixon's New York apartment. Richard Nixon pointed with pride to the hi-fi set which Edward, whom he says has the best mind in the family, had built for him. In that apartment, still caught up in their family grief, Richard and Edward could not remain dry-eyed as they talked tenderly of Harold.

Today each brother struggles in his own way to be his own man, while accepting the fact that being the President's brother makes their lives both better and worse.

"After all," says Donald Nixon, "each individual has his own life. I'm very proud of my brother, but I try to live my own life, keep my own business, and my endeavors separate and apart from that of the President."

Donald comments, "Whether correctly or not, being closely related to the President requires one to do whatever has to be done so that it will not be interpreted incorrectly. We have our own interests and problems, but to a lesser extent we, too, live in a fish bowl. One must be circumspect, but it is my philosophy to be so anyway."

Donald tries. Acting as a special assistant to the candidate during his brother's Presidential campaign in 1968, he had among his duties the task of making arrangements to get some 203 Nixon and Ryan (Ryan is Pat Nixon's maiden name) relatives to Washington for the Inauguration. The night of the Inauguration, before the Inaugural Ball began, he acted as host to a selected group of these relatives and friends. But once the event faded into history, he returned to his one-story home in Newport Beach, Calif., with no desire to become part of his brother's Administration.

Donald is an assistant to J. Willard Marriott, Jr., of the Marriott Corporation and is a management staff consultant with the Carnation milk and ice-cream company. Before that he was a vice president of Ogden Food, in charge of in-flight food preparation. He was also management staff consultant for Jessop Steel but resigned that post when his brother became President lest he be accused of conflict of interest. At Marriott, Donald Nixon is involved in food operations and franchising.

A stocky six-footer, Donald is jovial, generous, full of quips, a great host, and always the hub of things. His home, with its four bedrooms, three-and-a-half baths, living room, dining room, back porch, yard and even an old-fashioned family room, is a lively place over which his wife Clara Jane (nee Lemke) presides graciously.

At home with Donald and Clara Jane are their two sons—25-year-old Donald, Jr., and Richard, 18. "Donny," who served in the Navy on the USS Princeton in Vietnam, attends Orange Coast College and expects to study law at Southwest University. Richard is a student at Newport Beach High School. A daughter, Lawrene Mae, lived in Placentia, Calif., where she taught school, until her marriage on June 27 to Thomas E. Anfinson, an accountant with a brokerage firm in California.

The Donald Nixons, married 28 years and brought together by their families, share a common background and way of looking at life. Devoted to old friends,

New Challenge For Auto Racing's Best Drivers

By ROBERT PEER

A little over three years ago, Indianapolis attorney David B. Lockton started to promote the idea of building an auto race track in southern California that would rival the best—including the Indianapolis Speedway.

This up-coming Labor Day weekend, the 33-year-old Lockton's $25 million dream will come true when more than 30 of the world's best-known drivers rev up their motors and inaugurate the Ontario Motor Speedway. Located about 40 miles east of Los Angeles, on 700 acres of one-time vineyards, the new two-and-a-half-mile, high-speed oval track is, Lockton admits, patterned after its Indianapolis counterpart. But, Lockton adds, it is not a mere copy. "We've tried to build the most modern facility possible."

There are three major tracks in the Ontario complex. The quarter-mile strip for drag racing runs parallel to the oval and a three-and-a-fifth-mile course—which shares the main straightway of the oval—winds through the infields and around lakes to provide a Grand Prix-type roadway.

The entire track can be seen from every seat. The grandstands can seat some 85,000 fans, and portable stands can accommodate an additional 55,000. Infield spectators could swell the attendance to a projected 200,000.

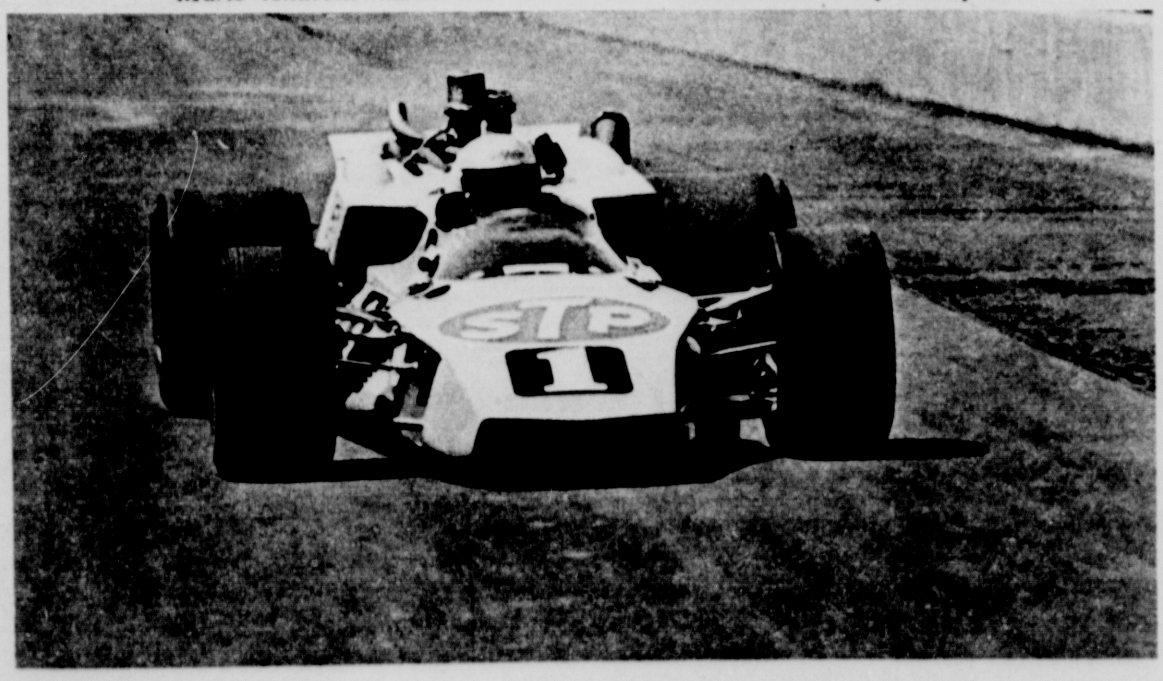

Plans are now being completed for the track to be used on a year-round basis. Just as the upcoming big California 500-mile championship race on Sept. 6 will be an annual Labor Day event, other yearly meets are scheduled, including the "Supernationals," sanctioned by the National Hot Rod Association, and the 500-mile stock car Grand National for late-model American sedans.

The accent of the new speedway is on elegance and glamour as indicated by the composition of the Board of Directors, whose membership includes such long-time racing enthusiasts as actor Kirk Douglas and tv's Dick Smothers. The Victory Circle Club will have a projected 5,200 members who, for $250 yearly, will get season tickets, parking space, use of the club restaurant and lounge in the five-story main building.

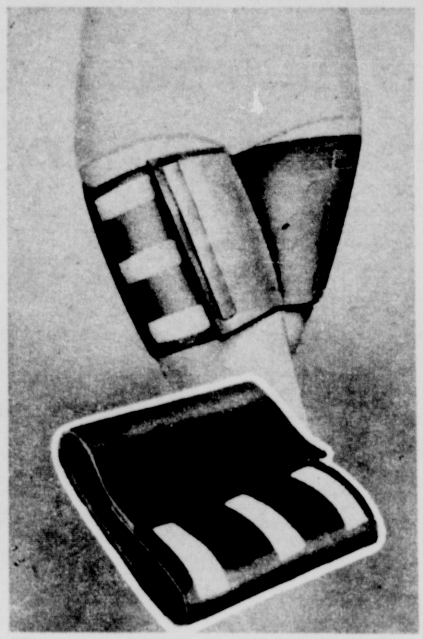

And for the really royal treatment, there are executive suites overlooking the track, which rent for $30,000 a year. Such suites can accommodate up to 60 people, and tenants have to do their own decorating.

But of course, a principal requirement of the new speedway is to please the world's finest race drivers. Mark Donohue, multiple winner of national road-racing championships in sports cars and sedans and 1969 Indianapolis "Rookie of the year," has said, "Ontario Motor Speedway stands out as one of the biggest things to happen to modern racing in many years." Mario Andretti, 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner, commented, "The Ontario Motor Speedway is the start of a new era in the sport of auto racing." If these champs are right, David Lockton will have achieved the goal he set for himself. ◆

■ During the Labor Day weekend, gather together the family or close friends for an intimate alfresco dinner party. For a sure-to-please menu, serve chicken with baked potato, a salad, and a honeydew pie for an extra flair.

This tempting individual service for one includes a chicken breast, plump with mixed vegetable stuffing, a sour cream-capped baked potato, and a serving of crispy salad.

- 6 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, rinsed and boned
- Vegetable Stuffing (see recipe)
- Butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon paprika

2. Brush chicken with butter or margarine and sprinkle with a blend of the salt, pepper, and paprika. For each packet, bring two opposite edges of foil together over chicken and wrap securely, using a drugstore fold; turn up ends and fold to seal.

3. Set packets on a hot grill; cook 35 to 45 min., or until chicken is tender, turning packets over twice during cooking.

4. Transfer chicken from foil to individual plates.

6 servings

Vegetable Stuffing

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup diced celery
- ¼ cup diced carrot
- ¼ cup diced green pepper

- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon Accent
- 3 tablespoons snipped parsley
- ½ teaspoon chervil leaves, crushed

About 4 qts. cooler

Honeydew Pie

- 1 baked 9-in. pastry shell (prepared from a pie crust mix)
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 env. unflavored gelatin
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1¼ cups water
- 2 egg yolks, fork beaten
- 1½ teaspoons finely shredded lime peel
- 3 tablespoons lime juice
- 7 drops green food coloring
- ½ cup dairy sour cream, fork beaten
- 1½ cups diced or coarsely chopped honeydew melon, chilled
- 2 egg whites
- 2 tablespoons sugar

1. Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Set aside.

2. Blend the ¾ cup sugar, flour, and salt in a heavy saucepan. Gradually add the 1¼ cups water, blending until smooth. Stirring gently and constantly, bring mixture to boiling; reduce heat and cook 3 min.

3. Vigorously stir about 3 tablespoons hot mixture into the egg yolks. Immediately blend into mixture in saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly, about 3 min. Remove from heat; stir in softened gelatin until completely dissolved. Blend in lime peel and juice, food coloring, and finally the sour cream.

4. Chill until partially set, stirring occasionally. Add the diced melon (drained, if necessary) to the partially set gelatin mixture and fold together.

5. Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually add the remaining 2 tablespoons sugar, continuing to beat just until stiff peaks are formed. Turn onto the gelatin mixture and gently fold together until thoroughly blended. Turn filling into pastry shell. Chill until firm. If desired, garnish with whipped cream.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

The construction worker opened his lunch basket, looked in and growled:

"Cheese sandwiches. Always cheese sandwiches."

"For Pete's sake," exclaimed a fellow worker sitting nearby. "If you hate cheese sandwiches so much, why don't you ask your wife to make you some other kind?"

"My wife?" responded the first worker. "Who's married? I make these sandwiches myself." —A. T. Quigg

Golfer in thicket: "Never mind the ball, caddy. Come and find me."

The nickel-nursing couple took their infant son to a movie. The usher warned them that unless the baby remained quiet, the management would refund their money and ask them to leave. Near the end of the feature, the husband whispered to his wife:

"What do you think of the movie?"

"Terrible," she replied.

"Check," he agreed. "Pinch the baby." —F. G. Kernan

Honesty Hasn't Hurt Jacqueline Bisset

This slim and shapely young acting star tells—and lives—it as she sees it

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

Jacqueline Bisset got her first acting experience in an English boarding school where she always wanted to play boys' parts. But invariably she ended up playing "sickeningly sweet angels."

The tall, well-proportioned blue-green-eyed, 26-year-old actress got her first big break in show business right after attending a dinner party at Claridge's in London. Among the guests were Darryl Zanuck, head of 20th Century-Fox, and Italian producer Dino de Laurentiis. When Zanuck was told that de Laurentiis was about to use Jacqueline for a picture, he looked her over appraisingly, then said to one of his executives, "Sign her!"

By then, Jacqueline had played only a small part in one film. She made her first noticeable appearances in "Casino Royale" and as the girl who was thwarted from running off with Albert Finney in "Two for the Road." When Mia Farrow walked away from Frank Sinatra as well as the lead opposite him in "The Detective," they gave Jacqueline the leading role.

Since then she has starred in "For the First Time," "The White Ladder," "Bullitt," "Airport," and "Grasshopper," opposite some of Hollywood's biggest names, including Steve McQueen, Dean Martin, and Burt Lancaster. She is now filming "The Mephisto Waltz."

And for someone who has gone so far so quickly, Jacqueline Bisset has one distinctive, unactresslike quality: she's embarrassingly frank and honest. This honesty is apparent in all of her answers, her manner of living, her whole attitude toward life.

In her first Hollywood film, "The Sweet Ride"—her costar was Michael Sarrazin, with whom she has lived the past couple of years. Asked if they are going to get married, Jacqueline insisted, "Everybody seems concerned with whether or not I am getting married except me. If you love someone, it is only honest to spend as much time with him as possible. Why should I care what people say? I am not looking for kicks. Only for happiness, and, to me, happiness doesn't mean getting up at six in the morning to drive home.

"As far as I am concerned, you have to love a man more than your career to want to marry him. I love Michael and have loved him since I first met him but not enough to marry him."

In spite of her very "now" attitude, Jacqueline was raised in a traditional English manner, attended private schools, which emphasized being a lady.

Looking back, Jacqueline insists the discipline, both at home and at school, was the best thing that could have happened to her. "It helped me get over being too sensitive. Also, there is nothing more important than discipline for an actress."

That Jacqueline got over being sensitive was evident by her indifference to criticism about being 20 pounds overweight when she started to model in London. A friend, photographer Terry Donovan, once described her as "being feminine, sensual, and refreshing—but a bit meaty."

It was Michael who finally made her lose weight by pointing out that to be successful in her career, she simply had to slim down. How effective he was is evident not only by her 118 pound, nicely shaped five-foot-six-and-a-half-inch figure but by the way she works on staying slender.

At the present time, home is a "shack" she shares with Michael on Malibu Beach. "Nobody really believes it is so tiny," she explained. "When an actress says she lives in a shack, everybody takes for granted she has a five-bedroom mansion. I don't. I don't like possessions."

What about her future plans?

"I don't have any. I owe the studio a film a year, for another five years, I think. Beyond that I have no commitments, and I don't want to have any, no matter how much money I'm offered. I'd like to concentrate on one thing at a time and when I'm through with it, there's time enough to think of something else." ◆

Jacqueline Bisset and Michael Sarrazin share a little "shack" at Malibu Beach, Calif., and don't care who knows.

Better Street Lighting

Brightly lighted street in Charleston, W. Va., is result of citizen campaign.

Do you feel completely safe walking at night in your neighborhood? Would you worry about walking home alone after a movie, a party, or PTA meeting? Would you let your children go to the store alone for you after dark?

If the answer to any of these questions is "no," it's time you did something about it.

Large cities are not the only centers of crime today. Violence is on the rise in small cities, suburbs, and towns. Recent FBI statistics show the highest increases in crime in the past year—15 percent—were in cities of 10,000 to 25,000 people. Cities of 25,000 to 50,000 had a 14 percent increase for all crimes last year and a 23 percent gain in robberies, whereas in cities of 250,000 to 500,000 robberies increased only five percent.

Statistics further show that 75 percent of all crimes take place at night, and two-thirds of these happen in badly lighted areas. Are your community's streets adequately lighted?

They probably aren't. Only two percent of the residential streets in the U.S. meet the accepted standards, according to the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau. This means that there are less than 100 out of 18,000 incorporated cities and towns with residential streets lighted to a minimum level of 0.2 footcandle average.

These minimum standards were set up by the Illuminating Engineering Society and approved by the American Standards Association to indicate a level of convenience and safety for pedestrians and drivers as well as protection against prowlers and other law breakers.

Even main city thoroughfares, which depend on light for evening entertainment, shopping, and heavier traffic, are inadequately lighted in more than 85 percent of our cities and towns, according to the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau.

"Light works against the criminal in a number of ways, significantly reducing his advantages," says New York Congressman James H. Scheuer, who introduced legislation that estatblished the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice. "It makes detection by the intended victim and by possible witnesses much more likely and dramatically increases the odds of positive identification later on."

Representative Scheuer, author of "To Walk Streets Safely," also says light is the most "cost-effective" means available for preventing crime. "Clearly it is more efficient to prevent crimes than to rush about trying to set matters right after the damage has been committed." He also says that response time is critical. "In the first 60 seconds, the odds of capturing the criminal drop from 100 to

DEAR POLLY—To mend holes in screens, cut a piece of screen larger than the hole and pull off about three wires all around to make a fringelike edge. Turn the fringed edges at a 90-degree angle to the patch, press patch over the hole with the fringed wires protruding through the screen, and then bend them flat on the other side. This is easier when done by two people. —MRS. P. W.

DEAR POLLY—I make a note on the corners of recipes that lists special ingredients not always on hand such as coconut, nuts, etc. I always can tell at a glance what I need to buy without having to read through the entire recipe, and perhaps miss something.—TERRI

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—Snap clothespins make very good miniature vises to hold small articles you are gluing, or even to hold baby's bib in place.—JUANITA

DEAR POLLY—I received three large bath towels as a gift. They matched my bathroom perfectly and I tried to buy hand towels to match but with no luck. I cut one of the large towels into fourths, finished the raw edges with seam binding that ironed on and stitched only at the corners to avoid raveling. Everything is new and matches.—MRS. B. J.

DEAR POLLY—Our family recently took a vacation, but since we are a large family it was necessary to take two cars. We placed a blackboard and chalk in each car and found this a great convenience for messages and things we wanted to remember, like stops for food, gas, etc. When not in use otherwise, the small children loved playing with them.—L. A. M.

DEAR POLLY—Most cheap utility brushes have a curved handle to indicate the proper way in which the brush should be used. This causes wear on one side. When this begins to happen I reverse the shape of the wire part of the handle to give me double service from the brush.—MILDRED

DEAR POLLY—My washable Dacron knit dress was too short so I let out the hem. I was left with a crease where the old hem was turned up. I put the dress on the ironing board, placed a pressing cloth over it, sprayed the cloth with an aerosol fabric finish and pressed with the iron set on "Synthetics." It came out smooth as new.—MRS. A. J. K.

Nixon Brothers

By FLORA RHETA SCHREIBER and STUART LONG

proud—but openly admit they want to stay clear of the White House

they never miss a meeting of their bridge club, none of whose members ever made news or walked the red carpet of fame.

But that carpet is laid out for Donald not only on a business trip abroad but at home. The fraternal connection to the White House brings many invitations to Donald and Clara to attend California political functions. It is also reflected in Donald's home, where on the wall of a long hallway are cherished such objects as Nixon Inaugural medallions and a framed invitation to the State Dinner given at the White House for Premier Eisaku Sato of Japan.

Presidential prestige also shone on Lawrene Mae's wedding in the Presbyterian Church at Newport Beach, Calif. Her uncle, the President, and her aunt, the First Lady, were present. So was her cousin Tricia. Her cousin Julie and her husband, David Eisenhower, were in Japan at that time.

The wedding became so much of a public event that one man called the bride's father, pleading for an invitation. "I won't come," the stranger promised. "I just want to keep the invitation as a collector's item!"

Edward Nixon tries to maintain his distance from the White House. During the summer, prior to his brother's election, he announced, "I have no plans for Washington. Dick has his life to lead, and I have mine." While his brother was President-elect, he told us that the Administration contemplated a post for him as White House liaison with industry, but that he hesitated about taking Gay Lynn, his wife, who is a mathematics teacher, away from her classroom. He even turned down a $30,000-a-year post with the Commerce Department as chairman of the Federal Field Commission for Development Planning in Alaska.

Although Edward told the press that he did this for "strictly personal reasons," the White House explained that the real reason was that the appointment might run afoul of the conflict-of-interest law passed in 1967. That law provides that a public official may not appoint a relative to a job that the official controls or in which he serves.

Today Edward is employed by a firm involved in oceanography projects in Seattle, Wash. Before heading mail operations during the 1968 campaign at Nixon headquarters in New York, he had been with the Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone Company in Seattle as communications consultant.

He had also been employment supervisor for Bell-Comm., Inc., of Washington, D.C., recruiting and placing technical specialists who serve as consultants to the NASA office of manned space flights. He has also been an assistant professor of naval science at the University of Washington. On May 7, 1969, he was elected Republican state committee man from Snohomish County, Washington.

Recently, Edward has retreated more deeply within himself than even his introspective nature had hitherto allowed. A news story may put the spotlight on him, but he prefers privacy in his beautiful tree-shaded home, far from neighbors in a wooded area of Lynwood, a suburb of Seattle. He skis and ice skates with Gay Lynn (nee Woods) and their two daughters, Amelie, 12, and Elizabeth, 10.

But no matter how hard a President's brother tries to be his own man, he lives in his shadow. The publicity Edward Nixon received over the incident in Puget Sound is reminiscent of the time when Sam Houston Johnson, LBJ's brother, was involved in a traffic accident in Hidalgo, Texas. Newsmen from every part of the country called the Hidalgo police for details.

It seems, moreover, that the shadow is cast long before the brother becomes President. It is almost a rule, as Doris Faber notes in her book, "Mothers of American Presidents," that the President is almost invariably the older brother and that the younger brothers were pushed into the background by mothers who felt that their first-born sons would someday be President.

Richard Nixon was not a first-born, but at the age of 20 became one, in effect, after the death of Harold.

When Arthur had died eight years earlier, that death had first stirred in Richard Nixon a determination to help make up for his parents' loss by making them very proud of him. Arthur's death quickened his already expressed need to succeed. Recalling the effect of Harold's death on her son Richard, Hannah Nixon once told us, "From that time on, it seemed that Richard was trying to be three sons, striving even harder than before to make up to his father and me for our loss. With the death of Harold, his determination to make us proud of him seemed greatly intensified. Unconsciously, too, I think that Richard may have felt a kind of guilt that Harold and Arthur were dead and that he was alive."

Hannah Nixon didn't exactly predict, in line with the Faber formula, that her son Richard would become President. She said, however, that "His father and I could see from the first that Richard was a gifted child. We wanted him to be somebody. So did everyone in our family. My mother, Richard's Grandma Milhous, thought he would be a preacher. I thought he would be a musician, for he has a natural ear for it. When he was nine, he himself announced 'I'm going to be a lawyer.' "

While Richard was studying law at Duke University, Donald was at Guilford Preparatory School. There was not enough money for both boys to stay away at school. One had to go back to Whittier to work in the market the family owned. It was Richard, destined to be "somebody," who continued with his studies and Donald, without such a destiny attached to him by the family, who went home. Donald was a graduate of Whittier High School, but except for a few night classes at the University of Southern California, that's where his education ended.

The attitude in the Johnson household was much the same. Sam Houston Johnson grew up living and working for the advancement of his brother Lyndon, which was a family goal. It was not until LBJ moved into retirement, that Sam Houston broke away.

President Nixon's brothers never even got as close to their brother as Sam Houston Johnson did to his. And their present intention is to continue to stay away. They hold him in awe, and there is pleasantness—no rift. They have made sacrifices in order that their older brother could go "all the way." Don and Ed Nixon would never find fault with Richard.

Perhaps this is the sort of family devotion, sacrifice, and loyalty it takes to make a man President of the United States. ◆

Cuts Crime!

60 percent. In just six minutes, it becomes totally unlikely that the crime will ever be solved." Last year 80 percent of all FBI Crime Index offenses went unsolved.

How can you determine if your community is adequately lighted?

- When you look down the street, does light fall uniformly, or are there puddles of darkness between fixtures? The fixture should reflect light directly onto the street in a cone shape, extending up and down the roadway. It should not be concentrated around the pole.
- Are new areas of town being developed but accompanying street lighting not keeping pace? In residential areas, light fixtures should be no more than 150 feet apart and at least 20 to 30 feet above the roadway.
- Are school playgrounds, city parking lots, areas adjacent to movie theatres or other places of nighttime activity brightly lighted? If not, they certainly should be.
- Has your city modernized its lighting since World War II? Street lights put up 20 to 30 years ago can be using as much electricity, giving one-tenth the light as modern ones.

If your community's streets are not adequately lighted, what can you do about it?

Citizens' Action Groups across the country are at work appealing for support, surveying and mapping existing lighting, talking to city council members, proposing lighting projects, and getting results: reduction in crime and traffic deaths.

Consider Washington, D.C., where a block of families on Wyoming Street banded together after a man had been killed in front of their homes. They all contributed and had area lights installed so that the street is brightly lit at night.

To achieve results, here are some guidelines to follow:

Introduce complaints on badly lighted areas to one of the civic-minded groups in your community—PTA, church group, women's club, Rotary, or Chamber of Commerce, for example. Interesting others in finding ways to combat crime, precipitates organized action.

Research your city's lighting system. When were the majority of lights installed and last updated? Are there any areas—especially residential—without lights? Is there a particular high-crime area? Pinpoint badly lit areas.

Survey your townspeople. Do they feel safe shopping at night and letting their children walk home when it's dark?

Work with the community's merchants. If downtown lighting isn't adequate, most merchants will be more than happy to lend support. Light means more people on the streets shopping and a deterrent to would-be burglars.

Contact the local press for support, visit with your local utility company and work with your police department to secure facts on high-crime areas in your community.

Find ways to allocate funds. In Durham, N.C., the money for new lights that were installed this summer came from a Federal grant of $5,400, administered by the state. The city and county are paying $3,000. This is one of a number of anti-crime projects administered by the Law and Justice Committee to study the relationship between crime and street lighting.

In other cities, the expense sometimes has been felt more directly by the people and local government.

But the solution isn't always new street lights. Sometimes increased wattage in existing fixtures can be effective, as can better maintenance of all street lights.

As Milton G. Rector, director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, says: "One of the great deterrents to crime in the street is the better use of the streets themselves. This means people freely and comfortably strolling at night looking into shop windows, going to movies, or visiting friends without fear of attack. How do we get people to use the streets? One way is to improve street lighting." ◆
